16 Join Armed Forces; Others Plan Transfers To Join Reserve Units

Navy and Air Force Claim Most Enlistees

By GIL DEVER

The familiar expression "Army Year" is rapidly proving itself to be no false declaration at Sewanee. With the closing of school on January 3, sixteen boys had either enlisted in the service, been drafted, or transferred from the University.

Some boys are joining the various branches of the armed forces in order to avoid being drafted into the infantry. Others are transferring to schools with advanced ROTC units in the hope of being exempted from the draft.

Wynne Ragland, senior, was called into active service by his national guard unit. He is to be in 2A (Dixie) Division at Fort Jackson, Columbia, S. C.

Joining the Navy were Peter Almasiad, freshman; James Campbell Broadshaw, freshman; Cecil Duncan Harter, freshman; and John Horton Hughes, freshman.

 vill Warmbrod, Clayton Hamilton Miller, and George Parker Schaber, freshman.

Paul Keil Uhrig completed the number of credits for a degree before the holidays and did not return to school. Robert Tee Groom, freshman, and Robert Currie Ellithorpe, junior, were among those who did not return to school.

Dr. Gaston S. Bruton, Dean of Men, said that every student should consider all possibilities of being deferred. He makes any move to withdraw from school or enlist. He also said that he would be glad to discuss anyone's individual problem with them.

Religion and Literature To Be Lecture Subject

Dr. Charles T. Harrison, Professor of English, will deliver a lecture on Religion and Literature in the Phi Gamma Delta house. The public is invited. The lecture will be held on Friday, Jan. 12, at 7:30 p. m. in the Phi Gamma Delta house. The public is invited.

His address will be followed by a discussion hour led by Professor F. Q. Shuler, head of the Department of Religion. The audience will take part in the discussion.

Dr. Harrison is the second in a series of speakers on religion and its relation to the various fields of learning. Dr. H. L. Moore, Dr. Thomas P. Gowen, and the History Department, spoke on History and Literature.

The series is sponsored by the Student Society.

Little Progress Made In Union Construction

Progress on the new Sewanee Union is being accelerated through the winter weather, according to a statement by the builders. Bad weather and the cold generally impede construction by confining heavy equipment to the walls of the building.

Little progress was made during the Christmas vacation. Part of the roof was finished and heating units were installed.

All present work is going ahead on framing and roofing. Workmen stated that there is one of the slowest jobs in difficult to work while plumbers are laying pipes in the floors.

The final date was available on when the Union would be complete and contractors plan to complete work sometime during the coming summer.

Millsaps Debaters Win Tourney; T. P. I. 2d

Eleven Southern Colleges In Third Annual Contest

Millsaps College, of Jackson, Mississippi, walked away Saturday afternoon with the coveted championship trophy of the 3rd annual Sewanee Pre-Session Debate Tournament. Debating the subject "Resolved: That the non-communist nations should form an international organization," were eight debaters from eleven colleges, representing four southern states.

Climate of the six-hour journey was the championship round on Saturday afternoon, at which time the Millsaps team won a decision over the debaters from runner-up Tennessee Tech, to win the championship and the trophy.

Third place was won by a team from David Lipscomb College of Nashville. Unfortunately, the first team, Sewanee, finished near the end of the standings. Several of the tournament (Continued on page 3)

University Choir Will Make Record Album

Sewanee will go on record next month when a mobile unit of a Camden, New Jersey, firm visits the Mountain to record choice selections by the University Choir under the direction of Mr. Paul McConnel.

Though the selections have not finally been determined, they will be chosen from the entire University Choir repertoire, and will probably consist of several never before recorded.

The attractive souvenir album designed by Sewanee artists will contain three ten inch records at the 78 rpm (standard) speed.

Through the efforts of the Music Club, sponsors of the plan, and with the assistance of Mr. Arthur Chitty and the Public Relations staff, some two hundred and twenty of the necessary three hundred subscriptions already have been secured.

Consideration of the plan to have first rate professional recordings made stems from the success of the University Choir's concerts in Birmingham.

Because of the many excellent recordings of college choral groups made by the New Jersey firm, Recorded Publications Company will be awarded the contract.

Amohitry Postponed By Dramatics Director

Mr. Terry Shuman, director of P. M. Masque, announced that the presentation of Amohitry 28 will be postponed approximately one month.

The reasons are threefold: there is difficulty in securing the gym without conflict with its basketball schedule; there is a possible delay concerning the lighting equipment, and the costumes procured from New York City will be several weeks late in arriving at Sewanee.

Washington and Lee University and the University of the South each will receive 35 per cent of the gift. Hollins college in Virginia will receive the remainder.

As each person holding one of the 33 annuities dies, the interest from the annuity will pass automatically to the schools. When the last of the annuitants passes, the principal will be divided among the three schools. The Rt. Rev. Frank A. Jahan of Jacksonville, Episcopal bishop of Florida, chairman of the University of the South's campaign for $500,000 and former chancellor of the university, acknowledged the gift for Dr. Boylston Green, vice-chancellor of the university.

Mrs. duPont made the gifts because she believes that independent endowed colleges can make an important contribution to the democratic way of life," said her attorney, H. P. Adams.

At Sewanee, it was announced on Jan. 3 that the latest gift to the university by Mrs. duPont of Jacksonville and Wilmington, Del., is in addition to more than $250,000 given to the institution by her in the past four years.

Like the other gifts, it will go into the permanent endowment fund.

Announcement that the trust including the gift was being set up when it was made in December 1949. At that time, it was stated that Sewanee would receive $142,000. Last spring, it was announced that the University would receive $162,000 more from the trust. The latest total includes these two.

All of the gifts made by Mrs. duPont to the University of the South were in connection with Sewanee's campaign for $3,000,000 for permanent endowment and $2,000,000 for buildings.

Active Literary Society Plans Brilliant Lecture Program

According to Gilbert Hinshaw, president of Sopherim of Sigma Upsilon, the new academic year promises to be a brilliant one for the organization. The group has been very successful in securing speakers for next programs scheduled for the next few months.

Those who will lecture in the near future are Mr. Hays, Mr. Long, Dr. Harrison, all members of the English department, and one speaker who will speak on February 28 at Sopherim's annual open meeting for the University and students. Aside from these, immediate plans affecting the group, there will be increased services to the student body as a whole, with two remaining issues of THE SEWANEE GAZETTE, the organization's official publication. The chapter is also attempting to reactivate the national literary festival, Sigma Upsilon.

As Sopherim looks ahead to greater benefits to Sewanee, it also takes a backward look at its achievements as well as remaining issues of THE SEWANEE GAZETTE, the organization's official publication. The chapter is also attempting to reactivate the national literary festival, Sigma Upsilon.

TEXAS AND THE COTTON BOWL

Quite a number of years ago a number of Tennessees went out West and set up a community which is now called Texas, although GTs that were stationed there during the war had another name for it. Most of these men left Tennessee because they had to. Although some went of their own accord, nobody has ever figured out why. Things were pretty tough out there for a long time, until one day someone with nothing else to do was digging a hole in the ground and struck oil. Folks got pretty prosperous then, and ever since Texas have been trying to do things bigger and better than everyone else. Tennessee never understood this attitude, after Texas had founded the place and always had a friendly feeling towards Texas, as anyone would feel for their country cousins.

Anyway, football was one of the things that the Texas were determined to do on a grand scale and better than anyone else. This didn't work too well for a long time, and even little Sewanee has been known to go out and wallop Texas, to Texas' great dismay. With all that oil, though, things were bound to improve. At last came the day when they decided to invade their old puppy out to Dallas and show the whole wide world the Longhorns were huge and better than Tennessee's little old Volunteers. A big crowd got together in the Cotton Bowl, and they all stood and sang "The Eyes of Texas are Upon You." Then the two teams came out on the field, and Texas showed everyone that they had a bigger team. That was about all they provided, though, for Tennessee won the ball game 20-14. In defense Texas played at least all members of their team but one came from Texas, while many Vols came from out of state. This makes one think that possibly Texas should get a few from out of state, perhaps from Tennessee.

But the most all this is that youngsters just shouldn't oughta go around seeing up with their elders.

OF OTHER BOWLS AND ALL-STAR GAMES

The South's 19-18 win over the North in the Senior Bowl at Mobile just about finished off the football season on the college scene. The South team was manned chiefly by Southeastern Conference players, and their victory concluded an amazingly successful year for the Southeastern Conference, their best since the war and one of their best ever. In the Senior Bowl it was the Southeastern and Southern Conferences versus the rest of the nation. Previously Southeastern players had been largely responsible for Southern wins in the North-South game and the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery. Also, of course, the Kentucky game, the game of the nation when the Vols defeated Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl, while their neighbors from Knoxville were blasting the Texas myth at Dallas. Thus can the Southeasterners lay claim to being the number one conference in the nation, for this year at least.

WADDY IN ACTION AGAIN

Former Tiger captain Vernon Waddy showed no mercy on his former teammates when he captured the Birmingham Southern team to victory over Sewanee. It was an extremely disappointing performance in the first game since the Christmas holidays, and the Tigers were routed to the tune of 81-37. Former Sewanee player Bob Dyer also played a good game for the Panthers. Poor shooting on the part of the Tigers was a big factor in their defeat, for the Panthers were hitting from every angle. Waddy's brilliant performance was a familiar sight for many Sewanee fans. One freshman was overheard to say, "It sure would be nice if that little guy was playing for Sewanee," to which someone quipped, "It sure was." Our loss was Birmingham's gain.

ITS NEWS TO ME

Now enter that period of sports inactivity better known as the "doldrums." Sports pages are filled with such fascinating articles as "Wackiest Events of a Wacky Year." One such event occurred when Johnny Bulla was getting ready to putt at an important moment in the National Open. A dog rushed onto the green, picked up the ball, and ran. "Army Year" brings vivid tidings to the sports scene both nationally and locally. . . . More and more athletes will be drafted in the near future, and it is feared that the Sewanee track squad may be the first to feel the real effects here. . . . Maybe the Russians could be taught to enjoy sports events as much as Americans, they wouldn't be sporting things this way.

DEBATE TOURNEY

Adjudges expressed the opinion after the tournament that Sewanee has a potentially powerful debate team and will improve steadily as the many freshmen members gain experience. Other participating colleges were Vanderbilt University and Austin Peay, of Nashville, the University of Tennessee at Knoxville, Middle Tennessee from Johnson City, Tennessee, Middle Tennessee State from Murfreesboro, Davidson College, of Davidson, N. C., and Washington University of Lexington, Virginia.

Cap and Gown Editor Calls For Snapshots

Snapshots of various Sewanee activities are being sought by the Cap and Gown for a special picture section in the annual, according to a statement by Thad Holt, editor of the yearbook.

All pictures can be turned in to the representatives in the fraternities. Snapshots of every phase of University life are acceptable. Holt stated, "We are planning a special snapshot section of possibly 15 pages for this year's Cap and Gown. The use of every good picture of Sewanee life will be greatly appreciated."

Almost all organizational pictures have been taken and already returned to the staff of the annual. The few remaining will be taken in the near future.

Gil Hinshaw, associate editor in charge of written matter, reported that all written material in the annual has been completed.

B'Ham-South'n Downs Purple Tigers 81-37; Waddy Leads Panthers

By HENRY LANGHORNE

In a display of amazing shooting accuracy and brilliant floor-play, the Panthers of Birmingham-Southern ran rough-hod over an outmanned Sewanee quintet last Saturday night, crushing the Tigers with an 81-37 score before a disappointed home crowd. The issue was never in doubt for the Panthers leaped away in the first half for a commanding 48-10 lead, and never were the Tigers able to threaten the evermounting lead.

Vernon Waddy, former Sewanee captain and leader of last year's team, combined with "Red" Stripling, talented and alert Panther forward, to run up the wide margin. Between the two Birmingham-Southern stars, almost enough points were amassed to defeat the efforts of the entire Tiger quintet. Waddy hit the nets for a total of 18 points and played a brilliant floor-game. Shooting from the floor thirty times the Little Panther guard connected on eight of his shots for an amazing 615 percentage.

"Red" Stripling, the other individual star for the Panthers, rimmed the baskets for 17 points, and also de-

Meet The Tiger Frosh: Intramural Basketball Under Way This Week

This is the first in a series of articles to tell Sewanee fans about the freshmen who have joined Coach Lon Varnell's 1930-31 basketball squad. Much is expected of these new boys, they will determine the success or failure of this year's edition of the Tigers.

Becher Richards is a 19 year old freshman who hails from Sparks, Tennessee. Standing 6'3" Becher shows promise in the forward and center positions. He attended White County High where he was captain of both the basketball and football teams. Becher never thought much about playing college ball until he came to Sewanee. He states that he enjoys playing under Coach Varnell and that he likes Varnell's type of basketball.

Jack Stowers, another of the Tiger freshmen prospects, comes to us from Nashville, Tennessee in Laune Linton. Stowers played 3 years in Laune Linton. He is 18 and handles his 5'11" well on defense and offense. Jack has a great asset to the team and for the basket as well as a good set shot from the guard position. Sewanee fans will agree that Jack has already proven to be a great asset to the team and with a little more experience in future games he should make a good starter for the Tigers.

Intramural Basketball Under Way This Week

With almost every team strengthened, basketball on the mountain this year should reach a new high and the race should be one of the closest ever.

KA
The KAs, with several promising freshmen should have a good season based around Lee Thomas, six foot four center, who should be one of the top players in the league this year. George Loyden and Jack Nicholas will return to give their services, so barring the draft the KAs will finish high in the league.

PGD
The Phi Gams are another team to watch as almost all of their team returns from last year. Led by Johnny Foster and Dick Smith they will definitely be a team to reckon with.

KS
The Kappa Sig will be hurt by the loss of Jim Finley, who will be out for a bad knee, but should see action after exams. Nevertheless they will field a capable team with Pat Dozier and Pete Finney returning from last year's team, and several talented freshmen.

PIT
Last year's champs, the Phi's, will really miss the loss of shooting guard Eldridge which led them to the championship last year. However, the other starters are returning and with the aid of Jim Winkler, on the board, the Phi's should be right in the race.

ATO
Another strong threat will be the ATCs, with all last year's team supported by Caywood Gundy and Al Reynolds coming back and such promising as Hector Janne and Webb White, they will have a fine team with both speed and height.

INDEPENDENTS
This year the Independents look to have a vastly improved team and though not among the best they will provide plenty of opposition to most of the teams this year. Andy Anderson is returning and will be helped by freshmen Bob Bradford and Bob Ward.

DTD
The Delts have lost practically their whole starting five and will have to start many inexperienced men. Hugh Brown is the lone remaining starter from last year, but Dick Thomas has looked good in early practices and after they get organized the Delts will have a strong team.

BETA
The Betas do not appear to be too strong this year, but with Bob Fraser, voted the most valuable player in the League last year, having departed for points unknown and they will have to produce a crop of new starters to be of any use. Andy Anderson and Bill Honey return from last year.

THEOLOGS
The Theologs with All star Van Davis returning for another year, will have a well balanced team. Bob Snell also is returning and will help these two will lead Theologs to another good year.

SAE
Possibly the strongest team in the league this year will be the SAEs, with stars as Benham Sims and Billy Thomas returning. They will also have the services of Bill Porter who should be slightly better, having fully recovered from a shoulder injury suffered last year. Conley will also get help from a host of freshmen, most of whom were outstanding in high school play.

SN
The Sigma Nus are a big question mark; the word is that they have many new men who will help them. They are led by Conley and Chuck Keyser, the Snakes could be a top contender.

At It Again

The basketball team has been heard from in preparation for their trip to West Tennessee to play Lambuth College of Jackson, Tennessee, and Bethel College of McKenzie, Tenn. The ten players who will go are Vernon Waddy and Manager Carter Smith are Bob Lockard, Buck Kefauver, Jimmy Rox, Bill Crawford, Jack Stowers, George Wagner, Becher Richards, Jimmy Rowe, Gene Eyer, Sam Derry.

lighted the crowd with some uncanny passing and dribbling exhibitions.

"The Tigers could never get going in the contest. A display of wild shooting and poor passing early in the game was a deciding factor in the defeat. The poor 11 percent record of the Tigers indicated the difference in these two teams.

Sewanee forwards were unable to stop the steady play of Chapman under the baskets. This tall, rangy center was a thorn in the Tiger's side throughout with his dependable follow-up work under the baskets.

Playing well for the Tigers in defeat was center Jim Rox, who scrapped throughout the contest and hit the Panther goal for 15 points. His was by far the best effort of the TIGERS.

Bob Lockard played his dependable as guard, and under the Tiger basket he was one of the few bright spots in the Tiger defense.

Captain "Buck" Cain was carefully selected by the Panthers forward in the game. He was not allowed to display his shooting talent. Cain fouled out rapidly, and after that the Tiger attack never was capable of engineering any break in the contest.

Pic's of the Flicks

By GEORGE LEVINE

Thursday and Friday, January 11-12—Dancing in the Dark with William Powell, Betty Drake, Mark Stephens. A mite old, but still a good comedy. It was released a little over a year ago, and was well liked then. Sure you've seen it, but let's try it again. Good music.

Owl Show—Drums. Released-7, yet I'm sure it was, but no one seems to know when. After trying for three days, I still haven't been able to find anything about it. Best of Luck in the New Year, Tommie!

Saturday and Monday, January 12-15—Rocky Mountain with Errol Flynn, Patrice Wymore, and Scott Forbes. The South on the move again. The flick, climaxing with the raising of the Confederate flag in victory, is grandly executed and brilliantly photographed. A well acted tale that tells of a patrol of the Confederate Army proving the far ranges of California in a last desperate attempt to round up an army for the failing Confederacy. Very good.

Sunday and Tuesday, January 14-16—Union Station. Radio fans with a predilection for programs featuring the indomitable private eye hear the essence of this motion picture at least a dozen times a week. William Holden plays the indetectructable police chief looking for a lovable little girl (Nancy Olsen). The picture's best asset: it's short.

Wednesday, January 17—Night and the City. Richard Widmark was never more heelish or convincing than in this, his delineation of a London hustler, long on ideas and ambitions, but short on principles. As a steerer for a London clip joint, he falls in love with a certain Miss Gene Tierney! Yep, this one's worth seeing . . .

Hidden Room with Robert Newton and Sally Gray. Let's all get up in union after the first feature. I thought I was lucky to find out who was in it.
