Thirty-nine Men Inducted Tuesday

In accordance with a ruling of the executive committee of the Order of Gownsmen, the installation of recently elected officers and the investiture of new members in the order took place at the noon chapel service on Feb. 16.

Retiring secretary, Gordon Sorrell, read the ruling and announced the results of the election. Following this, John Woods, the outgoing president, installed H. Clark as his successor. Bill Hood, vice-president, and Bill Smith as secretary.

As his first official act, Clark presented the new government to the vice-charter of the order and the new secretary Dr. McCrady spoke briefly to those who had received the honor. He reminded them that although the possession of the gown signifies privilege, it also carries with it the responsibility for maintaining the traditions which are a vital part of life at Sewanee.

The following men in the university received their gowns: Dick Adell, Ralph Banks, Donald Byer, Robert Bradford, James Broadhead, James G. Brown, Harold Knight, George Lovell Mankin, Clarence Marsh, John May, Charles Prather, Thomas Richardson, Charles Sibley, Carl Stoneham, Ed. Tanner, Ray Terry and Robert Webb.

Seminarians who were awarded gowns were Harry Bibler, Leon Balch, James Bottom, James Brantley, Fred Ebert, James Gilmore, Albert Hatch, Theodore Heers, Bernard Hellman, Francis Inge, Theodore Minor, Albert O'Connell, James O'Connell, John Pedlar, James Postel, Wallace Shields, Warren Starett, James Taylor, Michael Thompson, Robert Williams and Edgar Woodson.

Pi Gamma Mu Picks 15 Men

Pi Gamma Mu, honorary fraternity for social science students, elected 15 new members on Friday, Feb. 12. According to Gil Dent, president of the local chapter, new members are selected on the basis of their academic achievement, scholastic achievement and interest in the field of social sciences. Of the 15 new members, nine were juniors and six were seniors.

Seniors elected to membership are Thad Anderson, Gene Baker, Eugene Ballard, Clifford Davis, William Tynes and Leonard Wood.

Typhoid Strikes At St. Andrews

An epidemic of typhoid fever has struck at St. Andrews, the new Sewanee. The Tennessee State Department of Health has been on the scene taking care of immunization, quarantine and locating the source of the epidemic.

Scholarship Trophy Is Retained By Alpha Taua

Alpha Tau Omega retained the university scholarship trophy for the first semester of the 1953-54 school year by topping all fraternities. Independents and Stray Greeks with a 2.69 overall average. They were aided in this by having three men in the four point bracket and only one with under one point. Immediately following were the Stray Greeks with a 2.26, PTD with 2.35 and BTP with a 2.32 average. KS and the Independents with 2.26 began the second division, followed by DDT with 2.20, KA and SAE who had a 2.18 average. SN with 2.14 and PTD with 2.13 rounded out the eleven organiza-

Gillard To Represent Sewanee At ROTC Meet

Lt. Col. Wm. Flinn Gillard, Sewanee's PAS&T, will represent Sewanee at a conference of professors of air science and tactics in Montgomery, Ala., at Air University headquarters, Mar. 7-12.

More than 200 professors of air science and tactics from colleges and universities across the country and in Hawaii and Puerto Rico, will attend the meeting Mar. 7. It is expected that by this date announcement will be made of which, if any, AF ROTC units will be discontinued after this year due to budget difficulties.

Purpose of the conference, according to Brig. Gen. M. K. Detzelmann, commandant of the Air Force ROTC, is to review present and future aspects of the Air Force ROTC program in relation to national defense and citizenship training; to review policies and procedures relative to selection, education and motivation of cadets; and to present to the PAS&T mission findings from the Air Defense Command, Strategic Air Command, Tactical Air Force Command and the Flying Training Air Force.

This is the second conference of this kind to be held by Headquarters AF ROTC. The first one was held in the fall of 1952 when 200 college and university presidents along with PAS&Ts attended a similar meeting in Montgomery shortly after the Air University took over the AF ROTC program. This meeting was attended by Gillard and Dean G. S. Struben.

The first day of the conference will be devoted almost entirely to mission presentations by representatives of the various commands. Seminar periods will be held on the second and third days and PAS&Ts will have an opportunity to discuss their recommendations regarding AF ROTC plans and policies and to exchange ideas. A few of the topics scheduled for discussion during the remainder of the conference are Air Force officer qualifying test development and use, leadership training problems, personnel, public relations and physical examinations.

Gillard will fly to Montgomery from Sewart Air Force Base with PAS&Ts of Michigan College, Wayne, Detroit, Michigan State, the University of Michigan, Bowling Green, Cincinnati, Miami University, Western Kentucky and Tennessee A and I.

ROTC Lists Promotions

Lt. Col. William Flinn Gillard, PAS&T, disclosed promotions in the cadet ranks last week.

The rank of cadet airman first class has been awarded to Ken Kinnett, Richard Miller, Howard Pritchard and Martin Smith.

Those to be cadet airman second class are William Buchly, Perry Carr, Howard Cate, Bill Duncan, Irvin Dunlap, Starkey Elythe, William Griffin, John Hedrick, John Jones, Robert Keele, Bernard Reynolds, Arthur Tarkenton, Hugh Willford and Wesley Woolf.

Sopherim Plans Told

Sopherim, Sewanee chapter of Sigma Upsilon national literary fraternity, has announced plans for an open meeting at eight o'clock Friday night, Mar. 5 in St. Luke's Auditorium, featuring a lecture by Francis Ferguson, noted dramatic critic, at "The Place of the Theatre in American Life."

Further details of the open meeting will be announced in next week's PURSUE.

Tommy Williams, SAE junior from Chattanooga, was elected president of Sopherim last week following the resignation of Fred Reaney, ATO senior from San Antonio.

Williams announced that submissions will be read for membership in the organization during the second week in March and that all manuscripts should be in the hands of a Sopherim member by Mar. 11. Short stories, poetry or literary criticism may be submitted to be read before the group, and selection of new members will be made solely on the basis of literary excellence of the piece submitted.

Alumnus Appointed To Government Post

Henry F. Holland, 41-year-old Houston, Tex., attorney and an alumnus of the University of the South, was nominated by President Eisenhower recently to be assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs.

Holland, a native of Brownsville, Tex., was with a San Antonio law firm until he first entered government service in 1942. Joining a Houston law firm in 1945, when he began dealing largely with Latin American legal affairs, he estimates that he has spent one fourth of his time since then in South and Central American countries.

Up To The Students...

Benefits of the past weekend's activities seem to indicate that a number of Sewanee students, no small amount at that, are not physically or emotionally mature enough to be trusted with intoxicating liquors.

The Pan-Hellenic Council, at a meeting Monday afternoon, decided to adopt a plan whereby each fraternity would be responsible for the conduct of all its members, anywhere on campus, and would be expected to control those members in the event of indiscreet conduct by them while under the influence of alcohol.

Whether this plan will work or not remains to be seen. It is at least reasonably doubtful whether fraternities, as a group, are able to control the conduct of all their members, and in many cases the question may arise as to whether they will want to.

It is essential, however, for each fraternity to realize that continued conduct on the order of that of past dance weekends may easily destroy the whole fraternity system at Sewanee.

The official code of drinking regulations adopted by the university states plainly that students shall neither drink nor be in possession of hard liquor on the domain. The PUPRIS feels, therefore, that any student found guilty of indiscreet conduct on the Sewanee campus while under the influence of hard liquor should not and should expect to be removed from school.

Outside the university campus, in any public places, Sewanee students who do not conduct themselves in a manner becoming to the university which they represent should be dealt with in an impartial manner by whatever authority has jurisdiction over the territory they visit. There has been no such case, local or county law enforcement officials.

Apparently many college students are under the impression that since they are college students they have the right in possession of hard liquor and to attribute their actions to the fact that they are members of an elite group of children who cannot be held responsible for any "blame" they may incur while in college.

The fact remains that many of these "children" are of legal age, and those who are not should be mature enough to grasp the fact that they are expected to accept adult responsibilities.

In brief, a student who cannot drink like a gentleman should not expect to be treated as one. He should not only be branded by society in the same manner as himself would probably brand a common bar-room brawler, but he should also expect to be treated by appropriate authority in the same manner.

Why there have been so few automobile accidents between Sewanee and Monticue is a matter which has always amazed everyone connected with Sewanee. The PUPRIS hopes that a fatal accident, which could, by the law of averages, occur anytime unless the drinking situation improves a great deal, will not be the means of "sobriety" up the Sewanee student body once and for all.

Whether fraternities can control the actions of their members, as we said, remains to be seen. But some means must be taken to place a check on the immature, pumpered members of the Sewanee student body who live for the "thrill" of trying to become more inebriated than their fellows each party weekend.

If some action could be taken merely to confine these particular students to their own frivole drunkenness, some good would be accomplished. But when and property are endangered, when the reputation of the school as it appears to outsiders is at stake, and when it becomes impossible for a student to take his date into a fraternity house at any comparative late hour without having to step over other students who are passed out on the floor, or without having his date eyed immorally by such inebriated students as have not passed the situation becomes intolerable.

Will the fraternities force school officials to urge the removal of the fraternity system at Sewanee? Already, at many schools, notably Vanderbilt, there has been agitation for the removal of fraternities altogether. If some steps are not taken soon by the students themselves, steps must be taken by the university—and the PUPRIS feels that the student body should be, if the condition does not improve, the university administration will be justified in any steps it should choose to take in this matter, no matter how drastic. The students will have no right to expect otherwise.

The choice now lies in the hands of the students, as it should, either to prove their maturity and common sense in the matter of drinking or, being unable to demonstrate such, to be treated accordingly.

A Wise Choice

The PUPRIS is happy to announce this week the selection of Eric Williamson for the position of head football coach at Sewanee. We congratulate Coach Williamson and commend the Athletic Board of Control on their wise decision.

Missing Link

(From the Heights Daily News, New York University)

Communications from London ... provided the startling news that the bearded fellows who dig up fossils have made a gross error—the mighty Piltdown man, one of the few links between man and monkey, was not man, but mostly monkey.

This is startling news indeed, for Mr. Pitdow has held a revered position in biology and history texts used on this campus. Even mighty Samson should be stirred. Millennia ago, with the jawbone of an ass, he made a monkey of man. Now the jawbone of a monkey has made an ass of man.

Abbo's Scrapbook

Most of us at one time or another have felt the truth of the old proverb: The cure is worse than the disease. This proverb pretty well sums up the point of view, if we understand them, of people who dislike the methods of the Senate Committee now investigating Communist government. Of course there may be some people who resent any investigation at all; we have in mind only those who object to the methods of the present Committee, those who know its suspicion and distrust, grown from unproved and unproven charges, work like poisonous yeast in the body politic. It may give them some comfort to know that things were once better done, and so may be again. Just as the Communists threaten our values and our way of life, so did the early Christians threaten the existence of the Roman Empire. Let us see how one Roman Emperor handled this problem: Here is the Emperor Trajan's letter to Pliny the Younger:

"In dealing with the cases of the Christian brought before you, my dear Secundus, you have followed the proper mode of procedure.

"No definite rule, to apply in all cases, can be laid down. The Christians are not to be sought out. If brought before you and guilty, they are to be punished; but on this condition, that whosoever denies that he is a Christian, and makes good his assertion by performing acts of worship to our gods, is to have full pardon, however greatly suspected in the past. Anonymous charges are in no case to be admitted as evidence; this would be a very bad precedent, and besides not in the spirit of our times." The times, just for the record, were hardly a hundred years after the Crucifixion of Christ.

... the hydrostatic paradox of controversy ... You know, that, if you had a bent tube, of which one end was the size of a pipe-stem, and the other big enough to hold the ocean, you would stand at the same height in one as in the other. Controversy equalizes fools and men in the same way—and the fools know it. Oliver Wendell Holmes

The Final Installment

DEAR SIR,
Mr. Quarterman has asked me three questions (PUPRIS, Feb. 17) which I feel compelled to answer. The first of these was, "What has the Air Force contributed to the atmosphere at Sewanee?"

The Air Force has contributed the first University band since 1878, a band which plays at athletic events, gives concerts, gives the University good publicity through its own radio and strengthens spirit. The Air Force has added the Elite Flight, which has performed at football games, represented Sewanee at the Tennessee Forest Festival, and served as honor guard to two funerals. The Air Force has contributed the Military Ball each spring, and the Annual Awards Ceremony and Review. It has also added a rifle team which represents Sewanee in matches.

Another contribution of the Air Force to Sewanee, although possibly not atmosphere as such, are a new department to the University, which by virtue of being an ROTC unit, was badly needed at the time it was installed in the summer of 1951. It has given deferments to many students who otherwise might have been drafted, and has given an outlet for the talents of those to graduate with commissions in the USAF. It has added to the liberal arts concept of education, as in this day and age a military training and basic knowledge is important to any individual.

The Air Force has contributed to the community in such ways as support of the blood drive and the Air Force staff members and their wives have taken part in such community activities as the PTA, the Civic Association, the Red Cross, the American Legion, the Community Church and Sunday school activities.

The question "By what authority are freshman cadets ordered to clean up daily the cadet day room?" is easily answered: by the authority of the Cadet Group staff. Here I am only dealing with their right to do so, not whether they should do so or not.

The third question, "Do Air Forces not at times spread information on individual students that the university would not post?" is not clear in meaning to me. In this connection, it should be remembered that Air Force units follow some customs practiced in the Armed Forces in its relation with students.

The Sewanee Purple Sports

SEWANEE, TENNESSEE, FEBRUARY 24, 1954

Sewanee Drops Three Games; Season Closes Here Saturday

The Sewanee basketball team lost all chance to have a winning season last week as they played three games in five days, and lost all three games. The Tigers' season record now stands at seven wins and ten losses, with only one game left this year.

The rough week started last Tuesday night as Sewanee played host to the big Mississippi State team of the SEC, the night after the visitors had dropped a one-sided game to Kentucky, one of the nation's top teams. The Maroons started a team on which the back line averaged over six feet four, and in the end, it was this height advantage that proved to be the difference. After trailing by five points at half time, the Tigers completely outplayed the visitors in the third period, and were ahead of Mississippi State as they entered the fourth quarter by one point. The Purple team staged a great fight to maintain this small advantage, but the big men for the State team tipped in several straight baskets to put them out in front, and they managed to hold on and win by four points, 65-61. As far as the individual scoring went, Dick Richards, playing his best game of the season, was high point man for the night with seventeen points, followed closely by Joe Allgood with sixteen points.

On Friday, the Sewanee five travelled to Jackson, Tenn., to play Lambuth College, a team they had already beaten once before. This time the Tigers proved to be no match for the Jackson team, and they were soundly defeated, 36-73. It was the consensus of opinion of those who saw the game that Sewanee was the victim of some poor officiating, but just how much effect this had on the final outcome is difficult to say. The one pleasant note for the game was the play of junior Jim Dezell. Coming into the game at center line in the second quarter, Dezell got hot and poured through twenty points to take high scoring honors for Sewanee. His scoring was more than matched by three Lambuth players who hit for twenty or more points.

The next night the Purple five moved on to Memphis to take on the Lynx five of Southwestern University. The home team was playing the last game in their old field house, prior to moving into the recently completed new gymnasium, and with this as an incentive, were ready from the opening whistle, and proceeded to run up eleven points before Sewanee scored. They continued to lead the Sewanee team throughout the first half, and at the end of that period, they led the visitors 30-23.

Sewanee came to life in the third quarter, sparked again by Jim Dezell, and moved to within two points of Southwestern at the end of the third quarter, trailing 47-45. Sewanee moved ahead of Southwestern in the last quarter, and with only thirty seconds to go led by one point. Ben Lambuth, playing his last home game at Southwestern hit a long set shot from mid court to put the home five in front by one point. The Lynx subsequently added three more points to win the game by a score of 66-62. Jim Dezell again led the Sewanee scoring with 24 points. Glen Schifer was second high with eighteen points.

Sewanee plays its last home game of the season this Saturday night against Southwestern.

ERNE WILLIAMSON

Athletic Director Will Be Appointed At Future Date

Ernie Williamson was named head football coach at a meeting of the Athletic Board of Court Monday afternoon. Williamson succeeded Bill White who was dismissed several weeks ago. The Board failed to name an athletic director to fill the post which had also been held by White.

Williamson immediately announced his acceptance of the position. The new head coach is spending his second year here at Sewanee. He has been line coach for those two years. In addition to his football duties he has also coached the track team and was the main instigator of Sewanee's first wrestling squad.

Since he has been here at Sewanee Williamson has already had numerous sports triumphs. Paramount among them was the football win over Washington University in 1952 which so dramatically ended that remarkable season.

Coach White was ill and in his absence Williamson took over. After the game the jubilant team tried to carry the moustache coach off the field.

Williamson came to Sewanee with an impressive football record. He had played at North Carolina and Great Lakes during the war, and in the professional ranks after the war.

The ABC felt that a decision as to the appointment of athletic director could not be made at this time. There were numerous applicants for the post, but little was known of any of the men other than the information contained in the letters of application.

It is the purpose of the Board to spend as much time as is needed in screening these applicants to determine the best director. Final action will not be taken until this screening has been completed.

Track Team Schedule Told

The track schedule for this spring has been released by Coach Ernie Williamson. Williamson says that he expects the Tigers to have a good year, if some help develops in the field events.

- The schedule:
 March 27—Howard College at Birmingham
 April 16—Kentucky at Lexington
 April 24—Emory at Atlanta
 May 1—Triangular meet with Southwestern and Tennessee here
 May 8—T.A.C. here
 May 15—Bryan College (Tentative)

PASSING SHOTS

By KEITH FORT

A faculty committee will meet this week to look into the subject of how much extra-curricular activities affect the classwork of students.

When we first heard the rumor that such a group had been formed we were afraid that it was aimed at athletics.

Dr. Stratton Buck, who is in charge of the group, assures us that athletics are not the sole reason for the study. The study he says is being made to determine to just what extent extra-curricular activities in general affect the academic standing of students, those in the lower grade brackets especially.

It will be extremely interesting to see what conclusion the group will arrive at. It would not be logical to consider that athletics will receive much attack, if criticism is found to be needed. Sewanee's athletic program probably takes students away from classes for fewer number of days than almost any other school in the country.

It looks like Larry Isackson's 37 point "house record" at Vanderbilt has weathered the year. The many students here who watched the LSU-Vanderbilt game last week were afraid that Bob Pettit might break it, but he fell short. Kentucky had previously failed to break his record.

We are happy to report that the cheerleaders were out in full force for the Mississippi State game.

The first big scrimmage of spring football practice was held last Saturday. Coach Ernie Williamson reports that the team looked surprisingly good running from the unaccustomed T formation.

Bill McCutcheon handled the quarterbacking duties. McCutcheon who was the regular blocking back last season has had some T experience.

The three back blocking off the quarterback also looked good, especially halfback and captain-elect Bob Parkes. Bill Miller ran the right half spot, and Orin Helvey and Tommy Peebles ran from fullback.

Timing and precision, always a big problem for the split T, were rough Williamson reports, but, in view of the short time that the team has used the formation, he was very pleased.

Pic Of Flicks

By JOHN M'WHIRTER

Wednesday, Feb. 24—Believe it or not with Cecil Parker and Celia Johnson is the story of a retired public official who becomes a probation officer for the juvenile court. The probation officer and from all appearances should be very interesting.

Girls in the Night, starring Glenda Farrell and Harvey Lembeck, is also another tale of juvenile delinquency and, "teenagers seeking love in the naked city of New York." Of course it has nothing to do with this catchline but it still has a pretty good mystery plot. The publicity experts recommend a rather daring youthful striptease or a beauty contest to run in conjunction with this flick. How about it, Foster.

Thursday and Friday, Feb. 25 and 26: Trouble Along the Way, with John Wayne, Donna Reed and Charles Coburn, tells how a small Catholic village tries to get out of debt by organizing a crack football team coached by gambler John Wayne and his ten year old daughter. They win the first big game and are scheduled to play Notre Dame the following week when it is discovered that Wayne has subsidized football players. But Coach Lon Van Vleet, in the true unsubsidized tradition, saves the day by having the Globetrotters play Notre Dame instead. The Trotters win 9600 to 17 and the day is saved. This picture has a very high rating and will be enjoyed by all attending.

Friday Owl Show: Roadhouse, starring Ida Lupino, Cornel Wilde and Richard Widmark. This is a splendid movie with a fine plot and excellent acting, being the story of a spoiled rich man, who owns the roadhouse, and how he tries to ruin the lives of his friends when he doesn't get what he wants.

Saturday and Monday, Feb. 27 and Mar. 1: Blowing Wild. Any guess I could make about this one would certainly be unsubstantiated, but it might prove enjoyable to anyone trying to escape the Wild Blue Yonder. Sunday and Tuesday, Feb. 28 and Mar. 2: Monkey Business with Ginger Rogers, Cary Grant and Marilyn Monroe. This is one of the biggest farces of the past few years.
