State Rhodes group submits Dunlap

Bernie Dunlap was one of two students selected for submission to the Atlanta district by the Tennessee Rhodes Scholarship Selection Committee, which met on the campus of the University Tuesday and Wednesday.

The committee interviewed 15 candidates to select the two to submit to the district competition which covers six states. Dr. Edward McCready is chairman of the committee.

Secretary of the Tennessee committee is Dr. F. Tremaine Billings, Jr., of Nashville, a graduate of Princeton, where he was captain of the football team and a member of Phi Beta Kappa. The four other members are history professor John Henry Davis of Southwestern at Memphis, a Rhodes Scholar from

Kentucky; Prof. Frederick Ficken, Rhodes Scholar from Indiana and faculty member at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville; President W. Everett Derryberry of Tennessee Polytechnic Institute in Cookeville, a Tennessee Rhodes Scholar and former football star at U-T in Knoxville; and Prof. Arthur B. Dugan, head of the political science department of the University of the South and former Rhodes Scholar from Mississippi. Dugan is the Tennessee representative on the Atlanta district committee that will meet to make Rhodes Scholar selections on Dec. 19 and 20.

Committee members made a preliminary survey of applications Tuesday and interviews, with the 15 candidates coming singly to the office of St. Luke's Hall, began Wednesday. The meeting place for the committee and other facilities are being furnished through the cooperation of the dean of the School of Theology.

OG elects officers; Samson president

After a long delay in holding elections, the Order of Government finally managed to elect three of its members to the offices of this the students' governing body. The three officers, president, vice-president, and secretary, include two seniors and a junior. The three men elected are: Bruce Samson, president;

Bernie Clark, vice-president; and Kin Honey, secretary. Honey and Samson are seniors, and Clark is a junior.

Samson is a political science major from Tampa, Fla. He has served as vice-president and a member of the executive committee of the Order of Government. He has served as president and vice-president of Kappa Alpha, captain of the swimming team, business manager of the Cap and Gown, vice-president of Omicron Delta Kappa, and a member of Blue Key. He was elected to Who's Who.

Clark, from Waycross, Ga., was on the Honor Council his sophomore year, and in the German Club his freshman year. At present he is a proctor, and a member of Green Ribbon. He also has served as rush chairman of the SAEs for this year.

Honey, Kirkwood, Mo., is an economics major, who has served on the executive committee of the Order of Government. He is secretary of Phi Gamma Mu, president of Highlanders, president of Cadet Club, and president of Arnold Air Society. He is a former treasurer of German Club and a former football player. The nominee has served Sigma Alpha Epsilon as president, secretary, and rush captain. He has been assistant sports editor and freshman editor of the Purser and is a member of French Club, Omicron Delta Kappa, Blue Key, and Green Ribbon Society. He was selected for Who's Who.

Chamber ensemble plays here in January

CHATANOOGA SYMPHONY Chamber Ensemble under the direction of Mr. Julius Hegyi shown here with three members of the group, will present three concerts at Sewanee this year.

The Chattanooga Symphony Chamber Ensemble will give the first in a series of three concerts presented annually by the Chattanooga Symphony Orchestra, at Sewanee, on Jan. 18. Charlotte Hegyi is featured as piano soloist.

Second in the series will be Feb. 15, with the full orchestra in concert under the direction of Julius Hegyi.

Here again on March 15, the Chamber Ensemble will play the third and final concert.

The time for each of these is on a Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. They will probably be held in the gymnasium chapel. For nonresident students, the price for the whole series is $3.00; for students it is $2.00. Ticket sales will be announced later.

E-SU to meet January 5, 1959

Dr. David Underwood would like to remind all members of E-S-U, that there will be a meeting of the organization on Monday, Jan. 5th, at 4 p.m. at the home of Dr. Myers.

Sewanee sees Christmas without students

by DAVID JOHNSON
What happens to Sewanee after the students leave for Christmas? Does Sewanee relapse into a period of peaceful slumber only to be awakened by returning students two weeks later?

According to Mr. George B. Myers, "When the students leave, the faculty and residents take a long sigh of relief, for their responsibilities are abated, but Hrothgar is miserable." She points out, however, that the Mountain is not dull, for every afternoon sees an informal gathering in Sewanee.

The holiday starts with these afternoon gatherings, which continue until New Year's Day. There are sherry parties, egg nog, and tea for the faculty and residents of Sewanee. The sons and daughters of the faculty have reunions as soon as they return home from their respective schools.

On Christmas Eve the young people of Sewanee go caroling around the neighborhood. Miss Charlotte Elliott and Miss Marie Truslow first organized this annual event which carries the Christmas spirit to all parts of the Mountain.

Christmas afternoon finds everyone at Dr. and Mrs. McCready's home. The Tuesday afternoon between Christmas and New Year's is traditionally reserved for an egg nog party at the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Kirby-Smith.

New Year's Eve is celebrated at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Myers. The evening starts with a supper. There is dancing, square dancing, round dancing, and always a Virginia Reel." At midnight the dancing stops, and Dr. Myers has a service dedicating the new year to the Lord. Mrs. Myers reads Tenny-

Oldest alumnus in his 101st year

Sewanee's oldest living alumnus, Dr. John Bigelow Cummins of Fort Worth, Texas, and of the medical class of 1888, celebrated his 100th birthday Nov. 7. In addition to being Sewanee's oldest alumnus, he is also the oldest practicing physician in the United States and was given recognition for that fact by the Southern Medical Association.

A native of Cookeville, Tenn., Cummins says he didn't have anything to do with his reaching the 100-year mark. "It just slipped up on me," he comments.

He has no retirement plans as yet, however. Living alone without radio or television, which he dislikes, he still keeps office hours from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. and is available for Sunday and night calls.

Students can earn license

Sewanee students who wish to get an authorized Civil Aeronautics Administration (CAA) license now have the opportunity to do so, it was announced this week by Lt. Col. Joseph H. Powell, professor of air science at Sewanee.

Students are said that pilot licenses would be awarded to any student pilot after completion of 36½ hours flying time. The Norris Flying Service of Chattanooga is providing the plane, a fully equipped 1958 Piper-Tripacer with 100 h.p., and the instructor, Henry Smith of Chattanooga.

Lessons will be given on Fridays and Saturdays. The course will be divided into three phases: pre-solo with the instructor, solo flight, and cross country navigation. Instrument and radio training will also be taught.

The training course is open to all students of Sewanee at a cost of $17 per hour for dual flight and $15 per hour solo. These figures are lower than regular training prices and students interested in flying can earn their licenses at a minimum expense interested in this program should contact Col. Powell as soon as possible.

Williamson rating names Potts to All-America team

Bob Potts, a 5'10", 195-lb. guard from Vicksburg, Miss., has been named All-American by the Williamson Rating System of Houston, Tex. The Williamson System chooses an All-American team for the major colleges, the larger small colleges, and the small colleges.

Potts came to Sewanee after playing two years at Mississippi State. Previous to this he had been named second team All-State in the strong Big Eight Conference at Carr Central High of Vicksburg.

A member of the ATO fraternity and a forestry major, Potts has been a stabilizing influence on the Sewanee line for the past two seasons. Exceptionally fast for a lineman, he has been timed at 5.9 seconds for the 50-yard dash.

During his days at Mississippi State Potts played on a freshman team which went undefeated in three games, but this season marked the first time he had ever played on a team which went through an entire season with a perfect record. The senior guard rates this as the greatest thrill in his football career.

Purple Masque play wins acclaim

by WES BENSON, Special to the PURPLE
Last Friday and Saturday evening the Sewanee Purple Masque presented William Sroyan's Time of Your Life, a play that was written to capture the atmosphere of life in the late thirties on the San Francisco waterfront. Sroyan did not present the raw crudities of that era as nakedly as he could have; instead he toned it down with his own brand of philosophic romanticism which gave the play a much deeper undercurrent of thought and meaning. Yes, the play is dated, but it still has and always will have much to offer. Cheers should be resounding from every corner of the campus, but, unfortunately, at Sewanee there is a minority community of pseudo-idealists who have closed their eyes and ears to anything except what is sugar coated and rosy. The student body prefers to hear of "square dancing, round dancing, and always a Virginia Reel." At midnight the dancing stops, and Dr. Myers has a service dedicating the new year to the Lord. Mrs. Myers reads Tennyson's "Ring Out Wild Bills." The guests join the hosts in singing "O God Our Help in Ages Past," "The Star Spangled Banner," and "Auld Lang Syne."

Jack Bush is probably the most refreshing person who has appeared on the Sewanee campus in years. His subjective approach is vital and lacks the drag qualities of Purple Masque productions of past years. The well chosen cast was composed of human beings who let themselves be completely absorbed by Sroyan's characters. Excellent performances were delivered by Nick Albanese, Bernie Dunlap, Barbara Long, and Bob Gregg. The rest of the cast was more than adequate. The audience was completely drawn into the action on the stage if they relaxed and let themselves be absorbed in the whole. Unfortunately, the "erring" piano dragged out many of the lines to the chagrin of everyone present. Congratulations Jack and cast; I hope this was the last Purple Masque play presented by you this year.

Tiger talk

with
Stew Elliott

Two very gratifying wins over the last week have put the Tiger basketballers very definitely back on the right track. Both Southwestern and Chattanooga provided Sewanee with formidable opposition which caused the Tigers to play the brand of ball they're capable of.

We don't try to make it a policy to single out individual players, but the shooting of freshman forward Spunky Edgin in the Southwestern game can't go unnoticed. Held to only three points in the first half, he threw in 19 of the first 25 points scored by the Tigers in their second half comeback.

The victory over Chattanooga was especially pleasing because the Mocs have decided to go big time in basketball this year. They have started on a plan which has the eventual goal of putting them in a class with teams of the calibre of Memphis State. The visitors displayed a good fast-break offense in the early part of the second half to get back in the game after failing to solve the Tiger zone during the first 20 minutes.

The Tigers now go on a trip which will take them to Florence State and the Southwestern Tournament in Memphis, which is a two-day, four-team affair.

Perhaps the greatest testimonial of the resurgence of football on the Mountain came last week in the Nashville Banner. Five Tigers received mention on the All-Midstate Small College team. The team included players from Tennessee Tech, a school which defeated Chattanooga, upset victors over the University of Tennessee. We wonder how long it has been since Sewanee has had two little All-Americans as both Andy Finlay and Bob Potts have been accorded that honor for this year's work.

Swimming team will oppose tough opponents this season

A strong schedule, which includes Georgia, Georgia Tech, Vanderbilt, and Kentucky, greets swimming coach Ted Bitondo in his first year at Sewanee. Coach Bitondo inherits a team which finished with a 11-0 record last season, but this year's squad lacks the depth of last year. The new coach believes that this year several men will have to swim more events than they have in previous years to compensate for the shortage in numbers. The team will be strongest in the sprints and will be the least experienced in diving. In the rest of the events the squad will be almost on a par with last season.

Team member events are: Springs—Tony Veal, Charlie Robinson, Ken Rad, Pete Bailey
Back stroke—Fred Brown, Chuck North, Buddy Wincer
Brest stroke and Butterfly—Bob Veal, Jim Dean, Pete Bickle, Pete Bailey

Middle Distance—Bob Kring, Drew Mullenburg, Sterling Rayburn, Clem Jordan
Diver—Sam Rogers

Banner picks five Tigers

Five members of the undefeated Tiger football team have received mention on the Nashville Banner Midstate Small College team. Fullback Andy Finlay, and guard Bob Potts were named to the first team, while end Jim Gibson, tackle Max Young, and tailback Walt Wilder also received votes.

This was the third post season honor for captain Finlay. The 6 ft., 185-lb. senior had previously been named honorable mention Little All-American and was on the Eastern Tennessee Small College team. Finlay was the team's leading rusher this fall.

Potts, a 5'10", 195-lb. senior was the most experienced of the Tiger linemen. He was exceptionally quick in reacting and had a good speed, as evidenced by the fact that he was usually the first Tiger downfield on punts.
Gibson, a 6 ft., 185-lb. junior was the team's leading pass receiver, latching on to 20 tosses for 228 yards. In addition he was hard to move on defense and was a lethal blocker.

Young, a 6 ft., 205-lb. junior, was also named to the Eastern Tennessee Small College team. He combined bulk with speed and agility to be one of the bulwarks of the Sewanee forward all season. He also kicked off for the Tigers.

Wilder, a 5'9", 165-lb. junior, finished the season second in total offense with a total of 998 yards from running and passing. The triple threat was also very effective as a safety man.

Sewanee wins twice, overcomes Lynx, UC

by STEWART ELLIOTT
Sports Editor

A second half explosion enabled the Tiger cagers to overcome the visiting Southwestern Lynx 68-56. The second half performance by Sewanee made minors for a somewhat lethargic showing in the first period.

In the first half the visitors were able frequently to work patterns which resulted in easy goals from close range. A good showing in outside shooting by the Tigers allowed the home team to trail by only 36-33 at half-time despite a sloppy floor game.

Freshman forward Spunky Edgin, displaying unanny accuracy with a hook shot, immediately returned to Sewanee's side in the opening minutes of the second half. Edgin, held to three points in the first half, scored 19 of the first 25 points scored by the Tigers in the second period. In the game's waning moments freshman guard Jim Waggener threw in several vital free throws after being fouled by the close-playing Southwestern defenders.

Edgin with 22 points was high scorer. Dick Dezell scored 14 and, in addition, played a tremendous game under the board.

a zone defense for the first time this season. They could not work the ball into the keyhole at all, and their hurried shots from the outside fell far astray of the mark. Recovering shortly before half-time, they went into the intermission down 38-16.

At the outset of the second half the Moccasins unveiled a race-horse-type offense which quickly put them back in contention. The score was tied twice at 32 and 34, but the visitors never held the lead throughout the game.

The Tigers slowed the game down after this score and ran the score to 42-34 and were never seriously threatened thereafter. They withstand frantic pressing by the Mocs in the game's closing moments with some really fine ball handling.

Air society initiates 12

At its latest meeting on Dec. 7, 1958, the Arnold Air Society initiated into membership AF-ROTC cadets Clayton E. Farham, Tony A. Veal, James B. Lyman, Robert Kane, Dennis P. Thompson, G. Donald Ormsby, Thomas S. Kandel, Walter S. Welsh, Randolph Parker, Jerry A. Snow, William E. Prewitt, and John K. Rothpletz.

The following new initiates were elected to offices: Lyman, adjutant; Kane, PIO; Thompson, publicity officer; and Ormsby, faculty chairman.

Membership in the Arnold Air Society requires an overall 2.00 academic average, a B in Air Science for the previous semester, a recommendation by the Air Force Staff, and an approval by the majority of the members.

Arnold Air Society's first social function was a dinner held at the AEDC Officers' Club, Dec. 13, 1958.

Revived Sewanee Music Club elects officers

The revived Sewanee Music Club, having recently elected officers and new members, is planning to continue its plans of programs and lectures throughout the remainder of the school year.

At its first meeting on Oct. 23, the group elected the following officers: Fred Jones, president; Don Sanders, vice-president; Waring McCrady, secretary-treasurer. On Nov. 4 nominations for new members were made: Jack Arras, Ben Mathews,

With the objective of bringing music into the club, every meeting has seen something presented. Bernie Dunlap and Waring McCrady, at two pluses, played an impromptu Abstracts from the History of Man-Kind. Dr. McCrady and Robbis Moore sang several numbers from the "songs my grandmother sang" book, such as were performed in the 1957 Variety Show. The Club was entertained at its last meeting on Dec. 11 by a jazz combo consisting of Jack Arras on the trumpet. Dave Wilson, rhythm, and Dick Moore at the piano.

Plans for next semester include the Chattanooga Symphony Series, lectures, and performances by both the professional and amateur talent of the Mountain.

Just jazz

The following is a list of suggested jazz albums which, it is hoped, will be found useful over the holidays. Some are new releases, some are recent, and some are old and therefore familiar to those already interested in jazz. However, all are examples of jazz at its best in one form or another of the modern vein. It will be attempted to be as correct as possible chronologically, but no promises can be made.
