Steel Bastardgothic Design Chosen for New Dormitory

ROCK CITY. The Vice-Chancellor of the University has announced plans for the construction of a new men's dormitory. The mammoth edifice will be constructed of native mountain sandstone, cleverly contrived to look like stainless steel (all other buildings on the University domain are built of stainless steel, cleverly contrived to look like sandstone). The structure will cost approximately $68,000.00.

The new dormitory will feature such innovations as indoor plumbing, doors, special hangers for Playmates, special hooks for crucifixes, sliding panels for bottles, a beer can grinder, and a view of the top of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity house.

The style of architecture is Bastard-Gothic, with overtones of Byzantine-Kirbysmith. Flying buttresses were considered, but were rejected when it was found that one would pass through the middle of Dean John M. (Spider) Webb's bedroom, whose home is located immediately behind the building.

Dean Announces New Award; Prep-School Status Gained

It was announced today by Robert S. Lancaster, B.A., M.A., Ph.D., M.D., LL.D., LL.B., and B.V.D., Dean of the College, that the University has finally achieved prep school standing. This rating was awarded by the NASMCS-BAC (National Association of Small Men's Colleges in the South Belonging to the Anglican Communion) in recognition of Sewanee's growing administrative control.

The following reasons were given as aiding the Association in reaching its decision: limited cut privileges, mandatory chapel, locked post office room, elimination of Hell Week, Loss of Government privileges, and Language Laboratory. "Sewanee is to be congratulated for possessing such a high degree of oligarchy," said a spokesman for the Association.

"It was the last Gownsmen meeting that really decided us," the unidentified spokesman added. "You have the Administration and the Faculty to thank for this signal honor."

The company winning the bid is the F. Y. McCrady Construction Company of Cowan. Plans were drawn by the Gaston B. McCrady Co., Architects. Wiring will be done by the F. Fink McCrady Electric Company, Podunk. Interior decorations will be handled by the I. M. A. McCrady Interior Decorating Company, Fulford, New Jersey. Landscaping is to be taken care of by the B. A. McCrady Company, Landscape Engineers, of Squaw Hollow, Georgia.

Unnamed (Anonymous) Benefactor Opens New Restaurant Here

WAYNE GARDENS, TENNESSEE, April 1, 1962—A new University restaurant concession, to be "operated in the best interests," will begin operations "in the best interests" on April 1, it was announced here today by an unidentified spokesman (unnamed) whose information, he said, came from an unnamed benefactor (unnamed) who spoke "ex cathedra."

"The new restaurant, to replace 'The Tiger' and other meccas of the University community, will serve a discriminating clientele in their 'best interests,'" it was emphasized today by the unnamed "ex cathedra" benefactor's spokesman (also unidentified).

To be built on the left edge of the Mountain, the new restaurant will overlook the picturesque "Devil's Frying Pan," which will also serve as a food-preparation area.

According to unidentified informed sources, the restaurant was built to serve all those members of the Board of Regents, University students, clergymen, faculty members, bishops, and guests as the unnamed (unnamed) benefactor will admit. All others, it was emphasized by the confidential source, will be refused service "in the best interests" of the (unnamed) benefactor.

A well-known Atlanta ceryzeman and author of many rousing despatches, when asked to comment, quickly issued several uplifting, morally gratifying and thoroughly capable statements to the AP, UP, and NAACP.

In these releases, he stated: "The opening of the new restaurant by Sewanee's unnamed (unnamed) and unidentified benefactor is a threat, a dirty threat, to my organization, My organization, ESSCREW, will organize a 'Prayer Pilgrimage,' we'll sit down on that new restaurant, we'll pray on it!" Bishop Homer Tomlinson Announces Sewanee Visit

Leader to Crown Himself 'King of Sewanee' April 26

New York, The Theocratic Party National Headquarters today announced that Bishop Homer A. Tomlinson, King of the World, Supreme Ruler of the Universe and Brooklyn, Emperor of the United States and Russia, Maharaj of Ethiopia, Potestate of the Casor and Bishop of the Church of God, will visit the University of the South on April 26 as part of a tour of American colleges and universities.

Other colleges and universities on His Royal Omnipotent Majesty's tour include: William Jewell College, Southwestern Missouri Teachers' College, Northwestern Missouri Teachers' College, University of Arkansas, the University of Chilton Switch, Diabreah College, the University of Barinburgam, and Harvard College.

The schedule of events, as arranged by His Holiness, is as follows: 4:00 p.m., Parade from the Gates of the Dominion to Fort McCrady; 4:30, KING OF THE WORLD RUN PRACE ON EARNS program to be held at the altar of All Saints' Chapel; 5:00, formal coronation as King of Sewanee; 5:03, installation of the Sewanee Court of Nobility; 5:05, special School for Kings; 6:45, discussion of plans for the Presidential Campaign of 1964.

The prospective members of the Sewanee Hierarchy are as follows: Prince of Bullworn; A. E. Clatty; Duke of Duranceville, Vis. Hampered McBee; Marquis d'Meridas, H. A. Whartenby; Earl of Eceogambonum, R. S. Lancaster; Baron of Butwickler, Tubby; and Knight of the Round Stable, J. M. Webb. Dr. Edward McCrady has been chosen for the position of Page Boy.

As a special part of the program there will be held an allegorical reenactment of the Universal Coronation with prominent Sewanee Personalities acting out the symbolic roles. Some of the more important characters are: Mr. Clegg, Gordon Peyton; The Hound of the Baskervilles, T. D.; The Prince of Darkness, Blanchard Weber; Eversnash, T. A. Rogerson; Madeline Dowry, Heraclitus; the Venerable Beale, Dr. Harrison; and Pinocchio, Dr. Dicks.

His Omnipotence will dine at the Clararment after the program. Featured on the menu will be Clara's famous "King Salad," consisting of lemons, gherkins, balsamy, horse-radish, trips, and ox-tail. Later the Bishop will hold a world council meeting with his religious advisory staff. Students who wish to serve as translators may contact Bishop Juhann. All applicants must be able to read and write the English language, and be able to understand and speak Tennesseean.

There will also be a midnight carillon concert in honor of His Majesty before his departure. Some of the selections to be played are: Down by the Riverside (J. S. Bach); O Come, O Come, Kofacelsson (Old Jewish Air); Let's Do the Twist (Perpetrations); and Ein Feste der Dorke (Abbot von Colton-Martin). The concert will be performed by Dr. Albbutt Bonsholder, University Carillonist.

Bishop Homer is also being considered as a duPont Lecturer for the coming year.

Professor Lopped; Barber's Open Shop

ELLS N. TUCKER, bon student and Professor of Fencing at the University, recently lost his left ear as a result of an accident at the Sewanee barber shop. "I wouldn't mind," Mr. Tucker was quoted as saying, "but I had to pay an extra dollar for service charges. And, furthermore, it has disturbed my dapper campus image."

A head-amputation was averted by the quick action of Chief McBee (who (Continued on page six)

Signor Fiasco, Are You Artist or Window Decorator

A Special Interview

Signor Fiasco

GENOA—The Purple is pleased to publish an exclusive interview with Gianetto Fiasco, sometime Art Director at the Escola d' Bella Lugosa, member of the Sewanee Mafia, member of all the King's Art Council, and former Professor of Fine Arts at the University.

Q: Signor Fiasco, what is your opinion of the new "Artist-in-Residence" at the University?

A: Ha! They are replacing mee weeth a weendow decorator.

Q: What is your opinion and criticism of his art?

A: Art? What art. Hees paintings are blobby. By these I mean that hee uses notheeng but blobs of colors. Any child could produce the same amorphousness of form. Hee sees a weendow decorator.

Q: If he is so incompetent, Signor, why did the University administration hire him?

A: What else? Hee's an Anglican.

Q: Could you comment on his artistic methods and style?

A: Hee sees an artistic treeckoer. Hee uses the Thermofax for half of hees wok. Hee should decorate the weendows en the chapel.

Q: Signor Fiasco, both you and this other man have been described as "looking like artists." Would you care to comment on this statement?

A: Yes! I look like an artist. These ees because I am an artist. These man looks like a person trying to look like an artist. These beret with the University seal and gold earreng that hee wears. Hee sees a what you say, pseudo. Hee looks like a weendow decorator from Hollywood.

Q: Thank you very much, Signor Fiasco, for your informative answers. Do you have any closing comments for our readers?

A: Si. These man should bee called "weendow decorator-en-residence." Also, don't come to Sewanee eef you are an arteest, especially a Catholic arteest.

A Dialogue:

The Red Dog to The Monkey

"Oh don't X the doors, Charlie," said the Red Dog to the Monkey, "or you might be in ab-sentised from our midst."

"We cherish, cherish you all, all," said the Red Dog to the Monkey, "but just don't meddle in our affairs."

"We haven't a prayer (even in such a Christian institution) anyway," said the Monkey to the Red Dog, "but Red, you made a man outa me and I'm gonna make a monkey outa you!"

"That may well be, ah," said the Red Dog, "but I've a lot of monkeys on my side, and I'm working on getting a lot more up here, just like the good old days. A lot of good old monkeys make a nice good old school."

"And furthermore," said the Red Dog to the Monkey, "don't think that we aren't doing more for you parental-wise than your parents would do. Why we aim to provide the atmosphere best preparatory to later life."

"But, but," said the Monkey to the Red Dog, "we've been preparatized, the atmosphere now should be optatory."

"Ah, we cherish that, we cherish that. But, as Saint Augustine said, 'Oh Lord, make me GOOD, but not now.'"

At this the frumpitious monkey said to Red Dog, "Red, you made a man outa me. . ."

Idiottorial:

Gailor Hilton, O Gailor Hilton

The Purpiss this wok would like to extend its collective and heartfelt gratitude to a stan- chion of the academic community, a purveyor of Southern culture, and a true Sewanee Gentleman in the most pleonastic sense of the word—a new era of Gailorism. We have entered into a new world—A Brave New World.

In the fore-going rapid survey of the vicissitudes of Gailor, it has been firmly and frequently brought to the minds and mouths of those who used to brave the wilds of a Gailor meal. No more the unappetizing viands and unpotable potables. The food we now are served is delicious in taste and appearance. The menu is varied and delectable. Students are now allowed to eat leisurely, relaxed, unhurried meals in the true Southern fashion. Mr. Porte has even the true Southern fashion. Mr. Porter has even that would enable him to serve milt juleps after every meal. The Administration is expected to pass this with all expediency.

Why has this not come to pass before? Everyone agrees it was the fault of an Administration who expected a business administrator to be a successful menu-planner. We now have someone who is especially trained in the care and preparation of victuals, and we can see firsthand how one must be an expert to do to Gailor meals that which has been done to them. It must be done with patience and ability. Mr. Porter has both, and has proved it to the utmost of his ability.

Yes, Sewanee is entering into a brave new world of food. And we can only say, with no fear of contradiction or libel suits, that Gailor is pointing the way towards the new Sewanee—a Sewanee based on the tried and true Southern culture. Sewanee, hand in hand with Gailor Hill, is dipping its timid toes in the frigid waters of the new frontier.

It is only appropriate that two quotations from Brave New World appear here:

"Strumpet! Damned whoring strumpet!"
"O brave new world, O brave new world!"

Letter to the Editor:

Pinks and Finks, Want Dolphins, Yet

(It was scientifically determined recently, in a survey conducted by the Reader's Digest, that Dolphins have an IQ superior to that of the average human being. As a result of this scientific disclosure, Sewanee's expert on Biology, whose name must be withheld, suggested that Dolphins be accepted to the University, provided they pass the entrance requirements.)

TO THE EDITOR:

I really do think that it is carrying things too far to allow dolphins to be admitted to the University. Think of all the trouble it's going to cause. We will have to cut channels all over the campus, and make turn-of-shaped signs for them to get into Walsh-Eliett Hall. Dean Webb will not be able to control their drinking problem. Mrs. Dudney will be forced to use indelible ink to mark their grades, which means that all the wrong grades she gives are incontrovertible, and cannot be corrected.

There have been some objections to the color of dolphins; Dr. McCrady, however, tells me that their underides are white. This certainly should not make any difference, as even the sale of Black and White Scotch is prohibited on the Mountain. I believe the whole affair to be the work of the Pinks and Finks at Sewanee. They even want to place the dolphin pools on the left side of the Mountain.

John Morris, leader of ESSCREW, is already preparing a wade-in to protest the unequal facilities that he is so sure Sewanee will provide. "His Clara began work on a dolphin tank yet? No! So since there is no room at the inn, we are going to march up there and stick our heads in water pitches until someone sprinkles us with fish-food. And we don't care if we drown!" Well, John old boy, neither do I.

Eric Chespe has suggested a classic solution to the problem, but, unfortunately, dolphins don't have hair on their heads. But the students must protest this in some way. And if our pleas aren't listened to, then our gowns will be all wet.

TIGER TALK

A dream golf course has come true for Sewanee, according to the Public Relations Director at Sewanee, Arthur Ben Chitty, author of the Sound and the Furze, Sewanee's only means of communication with the outside world. This fantabulous golf course, according to Chitty, is to have nine holes. There is also to be a "Nineteenth Hole," which is a very clever trick, chuckled Chitty, as nine holes are missing.

The greens are planted in "Pecora bent" according to Chitty. This is another first at Sewanee, he went on to say, as all other golf greens are planted in grass. Also featured are spectacular views of the valley over 1,000 feet below, and spectacular views of the back of the Claramount, over 100 feet away.

The new golf course will be one of the sportiest in the South, according to Walter D. (Murgatroid) Bryant, Sewanee athletic supporter. Over one-half ton of grass seed was used, he went on to say, not to mention the 68 tons of manure, mostly from the Development Office.

Accessibility by air is provided by Jackson-Myers airfield, Chitty added. The greens can also be used for landing and take-off by individuals who prefer a more personal mode of flight. Four gasoline golf carts are available to visiting millionaires. There is also an atomic-powered golf cart for the use of the Vice-Chancellor.

This wonderfuous golf course, Chitty went on and on, has been appraised for over $150,000. Over $40,000 has been invested on the recent reconstruction. Due to the prohibitive cost of construction and maintenance students at the University will not be allowed to play on the course. Only professional golfers, prospective benefactors, and the Bryant children will be allowed to play on the course.

Frats Swing At Roundball

As we swing into roundball season we again see the Lambda Chi Alpha first solidly in the lead as usual. Flunking the old roundball hitler and you have seen plenty of rip-sporting action. Plenty of good playing by the other Greeks, and it will be a hard-fought three-way battle for second slot on the champion's list. The strongest contenders at this time are the Theologs, Delta Tau Delta, and the Betas. The Betas are better, but to be beat Betas, better bet on the best Betas, Bobby Bolingbroke. Other teams are not worth mentioning. Yes, the handball courts are definitely dominated by the top sportsters this season.

"Jeetz" says Ted, Sports Brief Man

Coch Bitondo, custodian of the Sewanee swimming pool, has been unanimously elected by the Jockey Shorts Company as its MAN OF THE YEAR IN SPORTS IN SHORTS. One of the world's briefest men in shorts, Coch Bitondo is noted and admired for his tact, enthusiasm, and ability to communicate.

In the consideration of Bitondo for this award the committee highlighted some of his achievements, such as the Id-Ego Award for jumping higher than his lead (23 inches), the Charles Atlas Award for physical development (Ed's Note: Charles Atlas is 68 this year) and the Bob Q. Cork Award for floating.

Coch Bitondo, a popular figure about campus, is affectionately known as "Shark" by the boys (girls, too). When asked to comment on this great honor "Shark" Bitondo grinned shyly and said, "Jeetz."

Flyboys Take to Air; Good Form Observed

The 295th AFROTC Cadet Group held its first outdoor drill of the year on 23 March 1962. The Corps of Cadets was led out by the Group Commander, Charles Jackson, who was assisted by his Deputy, Chippy Hayes, Knuckles Peyton and Lizard Selling rounded out the Senior Staff. Walrus Rushton and Image Langston commanded the two squadrons. Brewie Fry completed the staff.

The highly successful drill period began with a lough when the Adjutant, J. Rose by any other name, mistakenly dismissed the Corps during the opening ceremonies. After being quickly reassembled by the cadet officers (armed with 50 mm machine guns and bazookas), the Corps marched out to Clark Field.

E Flight, being the jocular group that it is, had built small tin altars along the parade route ahead of time. The altars smoked with burning rubber, and sported signs that pleaded, O LITTLE TIN GOD ZODEN, PRAY FOR US, WE BESECH THEE. This was well-received by all concerned.

Upon returning from Clark Field the Corps was treated to an unexpected laugh as a loaded trailer truck, waded through by a mischievous road guard, ran down the Commandant of Cadets, Major Mad Dog Murray. The truck was a total loss.

After drill the cadet officers were assembled in Room 3 of Palmetto Hall for the weekly crucifixion. Cadet Longston was excused from the Critique in order to hold a tea party for Squadron One in his room. This was followed by voluntary squadron drill. Refreshments were served and a good time was had by all.

Faculty Sabbaticals Begin With Webb, Buck, Yeatman

Several Sabbatical Leaves of Absence have been announced by the Administration, it was disclosed today, April 1, 1962. The following faculty members will be missing from their on-campus positions next year:

Dr. Robert F. Gilchrist has not exactly left of his own volition—the Registrar has run him off the Mountains for turning in his graduate file. He may be reached at the mission chapel in Sherwood, where he has sought asylum.

Dr. Buck is now in Paris, and would not comment on all of his proposed activities. It is assumed, however, that he will spend a great deal of his time buying ponies, as all of his were destroyed in the Great Magnolia Fire. He is also expected to have his Henry Miller collection available by the author. He will also buy a pornograph.

Dr. Harry C. Vestman will travel from Southern France to Monaco to the Riviera to Italy, and from there around the world. No further comment seems necessary.

Dr. John M. (Spider) Webb will spend the next year with the faculty of the University of Chicago teaching History. Although no history courses are being offered at the University for the forthcoming year, Dean Webb commented that it would allow him more time to work with the "Untouchables," in which he will play the part of Eliot

News. The Dean has been practicing for the part for years, it was learned.

Originally Dr. Webb had been asked to play the part of Al Capone, but it was felt that he was better suited for the part of Steak, and he told them so.

Robert Stack, of course, will fill the position of Dean of Men.

Hospital Claims Turret Victim

Wilfred G. Montague, independent freshman from Lebanonville, New Jersey, was hospitalized at Emerald-Hodgson Hospital Tuesday for injuries sustained in a fall. Young Montague fell down the turret stairs on the West Battlement. He fell when his gown the he was not wearing it because it no longer meant anything to him; caught on one of the stairs, he told reporters. He would not have fallen had the stairs not been circular, he said. Montague was on his way to required chapel when the accident occurred.

Dr. Lemonds Has New Organ

DENMARK. Doctor William Lemonds, University of the South Metastarsger, announced today that he has acquired a new organ. This organ, called an arthlound organ (so called because the music comes from more than one side), cost approximately $80,000, or the price of four stained glass windows.

The organ has a projecting rank of baroque trumpets beneath the Rose Window. It is one of the few protruding organs in the South, he added. The entire academic community is anxiously waiting to see Dr. Lemonds play his new organ. It is hoped that other organ-players will be invited to play it also.

Co-ed Scheme Goes Over Big

VASSAR. The Chancellor of Vice at the University of the South, Dr. Edward McCreedy, today disclosed that the University, formerly a men's college, is, and has been for some time, a coeducational institution.

Due to the strong anti-female sentiment among the students the integration was carried out in secret. A pre-selected group of girls were disguised as boys and allowed to enter the University. The Vice-Chancellor hoped that such strong attachment would form between the made-up girls and the male students that the overt integration would function without malfeasance. Several attachments occurred, with the result of the dismissal of several students from the University by the Trampus Patrol.

The University is now ready to accept applications for female students. A coeducational dorm, modeled after those observed in Sweden by the Vice-Chancellor will be built to house some of the girls. The rest will be located in the existing men's dormitories.

SATURDAY AND MONDAY—Portrait of a Frontiersman, starring Madeline Murray, Cary Hardon, and Spider Webb. This dripping, drizzling piece of falderal is rather Hollywoodish, but is saved by the fact that it was made in Tennessee.

The location and plot are rather improbable, the former being the campus of a small Tennessee men's college during party weekend, and the latter being a re-working of the Oedipus theme.

The symbolism is rather vague, the chief symbol being a pool table with the initials SN scratched on the surface, and surmounted by a seven-inch high model of Shapard Tower. Spider Webb plays the heavy.

SUNDAY AND TUESDAY—Blight in the Pizza, starring Yvette Mimile, Vivian Lough, and Spider Webb. This dripping, drizzling piece of Anglo-Italian loafiness takes place on a horse, and other places. Vivian Lough, the drooping heroine, is concerned with her bust line. The audience is concerned with her exit line, thinking it will never come. Yvette plays the part of a caddy, kitchensymphonic who caddyflies up to any cat in sight (a part she plays in real life). This is a good film for the kiddies. Spider Webb plays the heavy.

WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, AND FRIDAY—As usual, the worst film is reserved for the longest run. This terrible film is Meebeth, starring Sir John Gielgud, Sir Laurence Olivier, John Barrymore, Jr., Doug Fairbanks, Jr., Ebel Barrmore, Helen Hayes, the Old Vic Company, and Spider Webb.

This is a typical Hollywood gloss film, with a bit of a third-rate hooker writ, with a typical glamour-puss cast and features an indroitly handled plot which was flat and unbelievable in the first place. There is a noticeable lack of acting style. They even throw in a trio of witches for sensationalism. Spider Webb plays the heavy. . . . Both of them.

OW FIVE FILM, FRIDAY—Wild Strudelreiter, directed by Ingrid Bergman. This piece of Swedish trash is one of the usual bad, sexy flicks which grace the screen. The principal player has no stars, being Bergman (Eric) and Deoxyribonucleic Neubling, Highfidelity Barfootism, and Spider Webb.

Regents Do Twist In Riotous Meeting

In a recent news dispatch issued as a special to the Chattanooga Times Dr. Edward McCreedy, Vice-Chancellor of the University of the South, stated that after due consideration the Board of Regents verified the findings of the subcommittee on Sewanee Urban Affairs. Dr. Wilson Jameson from lower east South Carolina, chairman of the special emergency instigated sub-committee, was reported by Dr. Edward McCreedy, Vice-Chancellor of the University of the South, to have witnessed the construction of preliminary architectural blueprints for the three million dollar Jameson Hall. The new hall will house the new College of the University of the South. It was not immediately apparent why the new College would be officially called.

One high University administrator speculated that the addition would become known as Jameson College. Jameson Hall will be located on Federal Soil Bank land west of Harder Field. This site was formally known as the University Farm. The building will contain dormitory facilities for 1800 students, the Goodstein Memorial Science wing, Ford Brothers Occasional Library wing and a 20,000 seat auditorium as yet un-named. Each auditorium will be a cafeteria styled facility.

The plans for Jameson Hall call for a scale reproduction of the existing All Saints' Chapel. The Chattanooga Times reported heated debate in the closed door session of the Board of Regents between the McCreedy-Jahan and the Jameson-Jarvis factions. The debate centered on the degree of scale reproduction. Jameson supporters pressed for a one-to-five scale decrease while McCreedy favored a one-to-one scale. Arguments which would have made the proposed edifice twice the size of the present Chapel, McCreedy showed the Board of Regents actual architectural findings and a working model prepared by Admiral Art Nimtz, architectural consultant for the University of the South. The only change recommended in the plans was the addition of a second carillon. McCreedy stated that the only defect of the present Chapel was its plain plan callings.

Dr. Edward McCreedy, Vice-Chancellor of the University of the University of the South, added in his pleading summation that he had always wanted to see another "Gothic style" building on the Mountaintop. Finally the Board of Regents agreed on a compromise proposed by Sim Meeks, Jr., inquisitorial alumnus from Social Circle Georgia which called for a one-third decrease in size for the New Saints' Chapel.

The students in the new College will be female. Dr. McCreedy stated that he felt there should be close cultural contact between the students of the two Colleges. He pointed out that the general idea of a University with separate colleges had come from England. The Vice-Chancellor's recent inspection tour of the Oxford establishment north of London gave rise to his knowledge. It was also understood that Dr. McCreedy had tea with the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Dr. Bruton, Regulator of the present University of the South, presented a long range three month building program which he had been working on for ten years. He found it necessary to revise it because the policies in the building program tended to fluctuate Bruton's careful considerations permitted a slow increase of fifty students in the next ten years. To keep pace with this he outlined a building program of one dormitory per year. This proposal was vetoed by the Jameson endorsement forces. Jameson Hall will be built. Dr. Edward McCreedy, Vice-Chancellor of the University of the South, declined to comment when asked by reporters about the possibility of pressing for another College at this time. Dr. Bruton stated that he was not sure at the present time what his future position in the administration would be. One high official stated he would accept the Vice-Vice-Chancellorship of the new College with pleasure.

A Board member who asked that his name be withheld announced in a prepared statement his opinion of the meeting. The text follows "This is the finest most coherent meeting of the Board of Regents I have attended in the past three years. It has been my great honor and privilege to be there. I think we have made great strides in the direction most beneficial to the University in the long run. When I say that I mean I am taking what I call the long view. It has been a real honor and a real joy to have served with all these fine men, and you can quote me on that. I mean that. It has been a real benison, thank you."

(Continued from page five) lic Relations Director, has written a novel on the history of the college. "This is an extremely well-written and lucid account of the benefactors, Bryant's truntnams, and the sublime human interest stories connected with the historical course of the course. One top golfer, Eich Ezenhower, upon reading the book, remarked: "This book is Chitty all the way through."

A book of bodies beside the beer.
A pizza pie, a Clara's steak—and here
Beside me singing in your imagination—
O, Clara's were Paradise but for integration.

College Bowl Rig Favored Sewanee

WASHINGTON. The FCC, headed by F. Newton (Wasteland) Minnow, and the FBI, led by J. Edgar Boothrod, announced its findings to the Senate Subcommittee hearing on rigged quiz shows today. In view of the evidence it was impossible to reach any conclusion other than that the College Bowl television show was rigged in favor of the University of the South.

The prosecution was handled by Mr. Mnnow, who charged that Sewanee could not possibly lose. As evidence he cited the following facts: The Director of Reconstruction at Sewanee is married to a Dupont; the Duponts own General Electric (or a goodly portion thereof); General Electric sponsors the College Bowl program.

Minnow also cited as evidence of pre-arranged questions the fact that one of the Sewanee players consistently keeps his buzzer before the question was even asked.

Boothrod added that several of the faculty members at the University are active suspects for being "pink" anyway.

The four team members were each sentenced to four years in prison, but the Vice-Chancellor has agreed to serve their cumulative sentences in order that the boys might finish their schooling.

(Continued from page five) cover, when he was told that the new restaurant did not make any provision for his favorite mealtime custom-fitted eating—his interest cooled. "But we'll make 'em give us fuel for our fire eating," he said.

Unidentified Sewanee sources reported that Sewanee's unnamed (cetera) benefactor had stated that, if his "Ee-sewree" incognito" should enter his new restaurant, he would personally pack him off to Charleston under the provisions of the Fugitive program. Aet.

Officials of the Ecclesiastical Court of the Diocese of South Carolina promised that they would promptly hand the rewrite over to the editorial "Ding squad" of the Charleston News and Courier if he should be sent to them. According to Time magazine, the News and Courier editors would probably fit him to Fort Sumter to await their next morning volley of shots.

highly enthusiastic and optimistic about its success. "We'll track 'em down if we have to," one member of the new group declared.

Meanwhile, the boy entrepreneurs have been practicing on themselves. "I've had a close shave myself just the way," commented Webster, "and I don't see how they could have done a better job. I can't wait to get in a few practices on them."

This group has shown itself to be unafraid of working far into the night to drum up new business.
