

New Proctors Chosen For Next Year

The new proctors for next year were selected in the proctors' meeting last week. Four rising juniors and eleven rising seniors will serve as dormitory disciplinaries for the coming year. Frank Stubbfield, a rising senior and a physics major from Franklin, Tennessee, was selected head proctor. He is a Beta, has served on the Honor Council, and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He has played both varsity football and baseball. Frank has been proctor at Cleveland Hill this year and will be proctor of Upper Gailor next year.

Other proctors are: John Semmer and Ray Tucker, Barton; Doug Seiter and Bill Bertrand, Benedict; Doug Paschall, Cannon; Joe Colmore, Cleveland; Bill Wade, Elliott; John Scott, Lower Gailor; Woody Hannum, Hoffmann; Jim Stewart, Hunter; Bob Swisher, Johnson; Phil Condra and Rupert Walters, McKrady; Jack Sanders, Tuckaway.

Five of next year's proctors are Beta-As: Doug Seiter, John Semmer, Frank Stubbfield, Bill Wade, and Joe Colmore. The Phijs classed three: Bob Swisher, Rupert Walters, and Bill Bertrand. Woody Hannum and John Scott represent ATO. SAE and DTD have one proctor apiece, Jim Stewart and Jack Sanders, respectively. Three of them are not affiliated with a social fraternity: Doug Paschall, Phil Condra, and Ray Tucker.

Eight of the men will be serving as proctors for the first time: John Semmer, Bill Bertrand, Joe Colmore, John Scott, Bob Swisher, Phil Condra, and Rupert Walters. The other seven were proctors last year.

OG Considers Student Assn.

Trips to national student conferences, the state of the Union, and the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library were the main topics discussed at the May meeting of the Order of Gnomes. The meeting was also the first held with the new president Doug Myers presiding.

Pat Gutters reported on the annual Carolina Symposium sponsored by the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The theme of the symposium was "Arms and the Man." Gutters observed that while the speakers (who included Senator J. William Fulbright and David Brinkley) were excellent, the students didn't seem able to keep pace with them in open discussion. The result was annoyingly one-sided.

Bill Stirling, past president, reported on a conference held in St. Louis to consider forming a new national student organization which would limit its concern to collegiate affairs and stay out of politics. The Order voted to proceed further along these lines in the fall. Stirling also proposed that the OG join with the Sewanee Young Democrats in a drive to raise funds for the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library soon to be constructed in Cambridge, Mass. This idea was strongly supported and President Myers appointed a committee to take care of the details.

Debate Team Takes Awards

The Sewanee Debate Council attended two tournaments and won twenty-six individual and team awards this past year. At the Birmingham-Southern tournament the team won a second place sweepstakes award with Bill Lee winning a first place in oratory. The team also won second at the Agnes Scott tournament in January as Bill Lee and Lacy Hunt captured top honors in affirmative debate. In February the debaters traveled to the Harvard, Tennessee State, and Southern Mississippi tournaments. Among the awards won were another first place in oratory at the State tournament for Bill Lee and the outstanding speaker trophy at the Mike Speer, editor of the 1964 Mountain Goat and Cap and Gown, were chosen in a recent OG election.

OG Selects Goat and Gown Editors

After nearly a week of balloting, the Order of Gnomes elected next year's Cap and Gown editor, Goat editor, and student representatives to the Publications Board and Athletic Board of Control. The student body at large, in an equally long series of runoffs, chose next year's Honor Council and Student Vexie.

Mike Speer, SN, a rising senior history major from Indianapolis, Miss., was elected editor of the Cap and Gown in an uncontested race. After much confusion and an attempted write-in, Ross Moore, a rising junior history major from Newbern, Tenn., was certified as editor of the Goat. Bob Bailey and Gerry Porter will serve as associate editors. Heyward Coleman, KA junior, was chosen junior representative on the Publications Board and Willard Wood, PDT, was elected to the Athletic Board of Control.

Thirty Courses Offered in Summer School

The summer session of the University of the South will begin with registration Tuesday, 22, 1964. Classes will run from June 23 until the end of final examinations at noon August 15 with the exception of the Friday 4 holiday. It has been moved to Friday July 17 since the fourth of July falls on a Sunday. Class sessions will meet for sixty minutes, Monday through Friday. The maximum course load that will be normally recommended and permitted is nine semester hours. With a few exceptions, labs etc., all classes will meet in the morning leaving the afternoon free.

The University summer school will offer at least thirty courses this summer, about ten more than offered in previous years. The courses to be offered include: Biology 102 (botany); Chemistry 101; Economics 101, 211, 301; Education 101; English 101, 102, 301, 302, 303, 217; History 101, 102, 215, 328; Mathematics 103, 104; Political Science 101, 104, 202, 207; Psychology 101; Religion 306; Russian (Contemporary Russian, no number yet assigned) and Spanish 101-102, 201-202. With the possible exception of Russian, all language courses will be given six semester hours of credit. Some courses will be given one and one-half hours of credit. The first time at Sewanee there will be additions of two departments to the University faculty. In addition to the regular summer faculty, Sewanee will have as visiting instructor in psychology Dr. Troy Nunn of Utica College, Utica, New York. Dr. Harold Scott Wells will be the Russian Department director. Approximately half of these will be day students. There will be at least thirty students with no previous college experience. The main objective of such students is to prove that they are qualified to do college work and to thus increase their chances of getting accepted for admission to a college or to get an early start on their college career. The main summer school students will be housed in McCrady Hall and the women students will be placed in Tuckaway Inn. Married students, mostly from the Graduate School of Theology, will live in Benedict Hall.

The University social policy will be for the summer school much the same as it is for the regular academic year with the exception of the cost and title. Costs and titles will be worn to the evening meal in Gailor Hall and to all chapel services. Girls will be expected to dress discreetly. Chapel will be at the regular time as now scheduled on Sundays. Students will be expected to attend the daily chapel services which will be held at 6:45 p.m. following the evening meal. Disciplinary action will be taken on a general plane as the occasion arises since there are possibilities of problems that have never before needed to have been met.

Other formal summer programs at Sewanee include The Graduate School of Theology of The University of the South, Sewanee Military Academy Summer School-Camp, Sewanee Summer Institute of Science and Mathematics, and the Sewanee Summer Music Center. These summer programs will run concurrently with the University Summer School but be under different directorships.

Honor Code

Whereas: We, the students of the University of the South, recognizing in the fullest sense the great value of the tradition of Honor handed down to us from the noble past of our Alma Mater, desire to place ourselves on record as desiring to uphold this tradition and to maintain the high standard of conduct which it demands; now therefore be it resolved:

First: That any adequate conception of Honor demands that a man shall not lie or cheat or steal, and shall not break his promises without just cause.

Second: That membership in the student body carries with it a peculiar responsibility for punctilious observance of those standards of conduct which govern an honorable man in every walk of life.

Third: That, since the integrity of the degree granted by the University must in large measure depend upon the HONOR CODE, every man in every class must regard himself as particularly bound by his honor not to cheat in any form, and as likewise bound in honor not to fail to report any cheating that comes to his knowledge.

Fourth: Every student upon his entrance to the University of the South is required to affix his signature to the foregoing HONOR CODE as evidence of his acceptance of the same as binding upon him. Furthermore, this acceptance specifically implies his adherence to the following resolutions governing the administration of the HONOR SYSTEM.

A. That, as evidence of his good faith, every student write upon every class paper that it is to be graded by a professor the following pledge:

I hereby certify that I have neither given nor received aid on this paper. (Signature)

B. That an HONOR COUNCIL, consisting of . . . be set up, to which committee all infractions of the CODE above set forth shall be referred for action.

C. That this HONOR COUNCIL be empowered to . . . depurate from the University of any person convicted of a violation of the HONOR CODE.

Annual ROTC Award Ceremony Held; Seven Outstanding Cadets Receive Honors

Each spring the Air Force ROTC unit at Sewanee has its annual awards presentation, giving the most outstanding cadets in the corps recognition for their excellent service. The ceremony began with Major Frank R. Murray awarding the Professor of Air Science Medal to Cadet Colonel Thomas W.

Floyd, for the most outstanding contributions of service to the AF-ROTC program and the Cadet Corps. Cadet Colonel Floyd then received the Brigadier General L. Kemper Williams Senior Medal from Dr. Edward McKrady, based on scholarship and continuously demonstrated leadership. The Air Force

Times Award went to Cadet Colonel Harry W. Brooks, for having distinguished himself by contributing materially to constructive public attention for the Cadet Corps. It was presented by Lt. Col. Leslie McLaurin, Cadet Airman First Class Peter O. Smyth received the Kirby-Smith Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy Sophomore Medal, for the most outstanding sophomore cadet of 1963-64. The award is based on demonstrated evidence of leadership, scholarship, and devotion to duty. This award was presented by Mrs. Leslie McLaurin. The General Dynamics Sophomore Award was presented by Col. W. K. Dudley to Cadet Technical Sergeant Michael A. Campbell. This was an engraved plaque for a sophomore cadet who has demonstrated outstanding qualities of military leadership and who has been selected for the Advanced Corps. Cadet Airman Second Class Richard R. Jones was presented the Bonholzer-Campbell Rose, American Legion, Freshman Medal by Mrs. George B. Myers. This award is given to the most outstanding freshman cadet, based on demonstrated evidence of leadership, scholarship, and devotion to duty. A Chicago Tribune Medal is given to a selected cadet from each class of the corps, a freshman and sophomore ca-

Tennis Team Edges W & L

The tennis team of the University of the South came through in the clutch and edged Washington and Lee 52-31 for second place honors in the CAC tournament in Danville, Kentucky. The Tigers' No. 2 doubles team consisting of Felix Pelzer and Leo Harrison scored the clincher in the consolation match with John Baker and Lindsey Short of W&L 6-7, 8-6. In the CAC Sewanee had only one bracket change, Felix Pelzer in No. 5 singles; but the team came home with four seconds, Frank Jones, John Vander Horst, James Rowland, and Folbre-Jay Ovin in Nos. 1 and 6 and singles and Nos. 1 and 2 doubles, and four thirds Tom Rowland, Joe Harrison, Jim Folbre, and Pelzer-Harrison in Nos. 2, 3, and 4 singles and No. 2 doubles respectively. It was truly a fine team performance and a good conclusion for a successful season.

TIGER TALK

by COLEY MCGINNIS

The year is almost gone, and I thought it would be appropriate to stop and take stock of the entire year's accomplishments as far as athletics are concerned. Of course, the undefeated football team has to stand out as the highlight, but there were many others. Twelve of the thirteen proctors' accomplishments as far as athletics are concerned. Of course, the undefeated football team has to stand out as the highlight, but there were many others. Twelve of the thirteen proctors' accomplishments as far as athletics are concerned.

The basketball team waded through a tough schedule to wind up with an even 10-10 record, though they closed on a disappointing note by finishing fourth in the CAC tournament. Their biggest win by far was their upset of Huntington, who lost only three games and went to the NAIA tournament. They were 3-0 in the conference during the season with two wins over Southwestern and one over Centre. Captain Bob Swisher led the team in scoring while freshmen Larry Cunningham and Tom Ward had double figure averages. Junior Sandy Lumpkin was the number two rebounder behind Ward. The schedule gets tougher next year as Georgia Tech will be added. Tennessee is on tap again as well as a home and home series with Ole Miss.

Football Again?
"It was pretty obvious to the coaches that they came to have a good year from the way they went at it at the start," Coach Majors began as he reminisced about the football season. "We had a lot of good leadership. And this is a real good indication of our mental attitude—when we came back into the dressing room after the first four or five games, even though we had won, nobody was satisfied with his performance. They were not satisfied with doing pretty good. They wanted to do better."

The swimming team came around extremely well after a slow start. "We really jelled after that Georgia Tech meet. We are coming of age where we can use the experience to compete with the other teams on our schedule. Georgia Tech was definitely the turning point." Bifondo then looked forward to next year by noting "We have a well rounded team for next year, if the bunch stays together."

Majors felt very strongly about this team, as this next statement indicates. "The key to their success was their togetherness. And this all revolved around good leadership." Majors then went on to sum up his feelings about those last two key wins. "The whole season was enjoyable when we beat W&L, but then it took real strong boys to come back the next week and beat a team that could have beaten us two touch-downs." And then he reiterated the value of this program. "The things these boys learned this year will carry over into whatever they undertake in life, and they know it." We know it too, and for this as well as everything else, congratulations on a fine season.

Spring Sports—Too Many?
Dr. Bruton seemed pleased with the overall performance of his tennis team this season. "I was pleased with the Alabama match as well as any all year," he began. "Our most important win of the year was probably the Pelzer-Harrison victory over their W&L rivals for third place in the CAC tournament. Here we lost that, they would have tied us for second place. We beat them by exactly the same margin as last year, but this time we beat them head on. Last year they were knocked out by Washington. I suppose the biggest disappointment was our losing the TIAC, but Lipscomb beat us twice, so they must have been better than we were!" It was real good to see Coach Moore here with his discussion of the track season. "We were injured all year, but we did extremely well to finish fourth in the TIAC and second in a hand of thanks and gratitude to Felix Pelzer, the fine captain of this year's team. Felix is the only senior and has played fine tennis for four years at Sewanee. This season Felix played second in the TIAC No. 5 singles and 1st in CAC No. 5 singles and has placed consistently at the top in his four years here. He has a 4-3 record in singles and 6-4 in doubles this season. To paraphrase Dr. Bruton, Felix has been a good captain, quiet but full of spirit, and has provided the essential leadership necessary for a winning team.

the CAC." That second place finish was expected, but the close contest with W&L did not materialize. It was close at first, but once the sprint results came in, we pulled away. "M. L. Agnew and Bill Johnson were the two outstanding performers in track this season," Moore concluded. "We were disappointed with our worst record, but we tried to play ourselves into shape and win at the same time, so that is impossible." Coach Majors began, talking about his baseball team. "We played our first game with three days of practice against a team that had already won seven games. But the boys never quit or gave up. They kept on improving. They quit beating themselves later in the season." Majors cited the highlight of the season as the 5-4 overtime win over Lipscomb, who finished high in the VSAC. "The most outstanding thing in the CAC was beyond that game and coming back to win twice in one day when we were behind in both games," Majors noted. "And it should be a fine carryover for next year."

Finally, come golf and the highlight here has to be the third place finish in the TIAC. That surprised everybody, and it got their hopes up for the CAC, but it just didn't work out. They were still in that tourney too, being tied for second eight strokes out of first going into the final nine. But then nothing went right and they wound up fourth, beating Washington and Lee by only a

Tigers Place Second In CAC at Danville

Washington University swept to their second straight College Athletic Conference championship by scoring 95 out of a possible 100 points in the four sports at Danville. Winning tennis and track as expected, they won three games in two days to top the baseball title and finished a surprisingly strong second in golf. Nobody had any chance to catch them. They finished with 121 points with Sewanee a distant second at 100. Southwestern was in there all the way, and the Lynx barely missed trying for second as they wound up with 55. Centre and W&L had 65.

The optimism which the Tiger teams carried to Danville was soon exploded. Washington was simply too strong. Tennis was canceled track and tennis, and we were supposed to finish second, which we did. But it was apparent by the end of the first day, when their baseball team had beaten W&L and Centre to advance to the finals and their golf team was in second place, that it was just about sewn up. The final day, when their baseball squad whipped Southwestern for the title and their golf team held on to second, was icing the cake.

The Tiger track team finished second, but it was a distant second. Washington wound up with 108, Sewanee 95, W&L 36, Southwestern 33, and Centre 18. Tiger firsts came in low hurdles (John Scott), the high hurdles (Neil Iverson), and the discus (M. L. Agnew). Bill Johnson was the team's high scorer with nine points.

The baseball team had basketball stroke. That was an important stroke, however, as in the end every place we got was important in edging Southwestern out for second place overall by five points.

Future of the CAC?
Is Washington University too strong for the conference? I don't think there is any doubt about it. This year they won only three sports instead of four, but they had by far the best basketball team and they finished third in football by only one single point. It is going to take something matching a Herculean effort for us to beat them again in football, since they lose four men out of a 70 man squad and will probably be out for blood when they go into football this year. And the basketball tournament is up there, so that should clinch it. They will surely win track and tennis and probably baseball. And they jumped from fifth to second in one year. Who is to stop them? And I think several coaches, here and elsewhere, are starting to wonder why they are in. Though they may add prestige, which cannot be denied, they may well destroy the very purpose for which the Conference was founded. It would bear consideration.

hunt them as they lost to Southwestern in the first game 3-1. But they came back strong the next day to whip W&L 11-5 and Centre 6-5 to finish third. Wes Rutledge, Larry Cunningham, Phil Conder, and Frank Stubblefield were named to the all-tournament team. The Tigers also got fine pitching efforts from Al Sherrer and Dick Nowlin and Joe Abercrombie had seven for eleven at the plate.

Phis Capture IM Trophy

The intramural season closed on a happy note for at least two fraternities, Kappa Sigma and Phi Delta Theta. The Kappa Sig won first place in intramural softball with an 11-1 record. The Phi Deltis successfully defended their intramural championship with places in ten of the twelve sports and a total point count of 115 compared ATOs' and Delts' 125 with the rest of the points spread over the rest of the participating groups. The ATOs won a three way playoff for 2nd place in softball by defeating the Theologs 13-6 after the Theologs had previously beaten the Snakes 13-11.

In the remaining intramural sports the Delts won a double elimination tournament in golf with the Fijis finishing 2nd and the Fijis finishing 3rd. In intramural tennis the Pils won the tournament over the 2nd place ATOs and 3rd place KAAs.

Owl Flick: The List of Adrian Messenger

George Scott stars as the figure who follows the trail of an unknown murderer. Burt Lancaster, Tony Curtis, Kirk Douglas, and Robert Mitchum are included, but in a very unusual way; the theater audience is not told which is which until the final outcome.

I have it on a very good authority (Doug Milne) that this is probably the most exciting suspense thriller in recent years. Furthermore, it has the misfortune to be shown at the owl period—for those restless souls who feel they must contribute their infantile remarks for the benefit of the people present.

Last week, at this showing, the usual extremely off-color remarks were kept down very well; it would seem to be in order, for us again to observe these simple rules of self-discipline so that those who wish to, may enjoy this obviously good film.

Saturday and Monday: Man in the Middle

The second of this week's adventure-type movies; this time with Robert Mitchum, Keenan Wynn, Trevor Howard. All principal male members are military personnel located in the Far East theater during World War II. Robert Mitchum has shucked his 1957 Shine luggin' Ford for membership in the military bar; his job is to find a reason for declaring Keenan Wynn innocent of a premeditated murder charge.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday: Matiny on the Bounty

For sea adventure this film can probably provide more thrills than any other of its kind. Marlon Brando leads the cast as Fletcher Christian, a British naval officer of noble birth. This is not the outstanding role however, as Trevor Howard fits the die (Capt. Bligh) to a tee.

Flicks Improve

When I was asked to write this final article I was asked to say something in the praise of the powers-that-be over at the Union Theatre. As a rule, I don't like to do things like that unless I think them up. But in this case I'll make an exception. The flicks for the past year have been on a little higher plane than the last three. This is not because the flicks have been that much better. It is just the fact that Mr. Freeman has gotten new flicks up here faster than usual. This is a healthy trend for both us, as viewers, and for Mr. Freeman, as a businessman, and for me. Freeman is not meant as a back-handed compliment at all. Mr. Freeman deserves to be congratulated and thanked. If he knows that we appreciate what he is doing, he'll keep it up. And the way we show him this is to keep going to the good flicks and tubing it on the bad flick nights. That way, when Mr. Freeman counts up the money at night he can tell the type of flick we want. It never hurts to tell him yourself, if you're interested.

As for me, the work is fun. I've thoroughly enjoyed the job. But the pay is lousy.

Have a flickin' good summer.

Summer School Announces

the University of the South will run for five weeks from July 15 until August 15. The faculty of this school includes not only members of the University faculty but also scholars from other institutions.

The Sewanee Military Academy Summer School-Camp will run from June 14 until August 8. The school will be open to both boys and girl students. The courses to be offered are designed to increase proficiency in certain fields or to improve the credit standing of secondary school students.

The Sewanee Summer Institute of Science and Mathematics will run from June 22 until August 15. This program, sponsored by the National Science Foundation, is designed to give secondary school teachers an opportunity to work for an advanced degree in subject matter rather than in educational methods. The participants will be limited to a number of fifty. There will be evening lectures by outstanding scientists which will also be open to the public.

The Sewanee Summer Music Center will run for five weeks from June 22 through July 26. The Music Center offers a training program for instrumentalists with emphasis on orchestra, chamber music, and private study. The instructors at the Center will be artists-teachers from leading symphony orchestras and music schools. Both male and female students of any age may be accepted.

OG Considers

Committee members will canvass the dormitories this weekend with the hope of raising enough for Sewanee to make a respectable contribution.

Randy Cooper, reporting for the Student Union Committee, announced that the committee had met with Mr. Freeman and that prospects for improving the facilities in Thompson Hall were good. He also announced that Mr. Freeman had requested that the OG take a more active hand in the area of student discipline in the Union Theatre. This was referred to the committee for further study.

The idea of a reading period before was discussed again, but no action was taken.

A resolution was read commending Al Schmutzer and the DC for the responsible way they have handled student disciplinary matters during the past year.
