

At the recent Annual Publications Board Banquet Joe Cummings enlightened his listeners by informing them that they do not come to Sewanee for an education. His notion is that Sewanee's purpose is to construct a sound foundation for learning the lessons in "the school of events in the outside world."

Newsweek's Editor, Cummings Honors Publications' Banquet

Joe Cummings, regional news editor-in-chief for the South for Newsweek and a graduate of Sewanee, spoke to the Annual Publications Board Banquet Monday night. Mr. Cummings discussed the relevance of a Sewanee education to the "outside world."

Born in Augusta, Georgia of the "impoverished Episcopal gentry" (a prerequisite, he claims) he came to Sewanee during the war and entered the Navy V-12 program, going into active service in 1943 thus cutting short his education. After the war he returned to Sewanee and graduated with the class of '47. After a few "second-class" jobs he went into Newsweek in 1957, where he subsequently became the editor of the "impoverished Episcopal gentry" (continued on page four)

By the use of many humorous quips drawn from his experiences as a reporter to all the trouble spots in the South, he claims that "... as Abbe always used to say, 'It is very sad to see certain old alumni come back to Sewanee and reminisce about old times as if their education has stopped. It is sad because they have missed the whole idea and soul of Sewanee. A true Sewanee education does not stop with

Informal Rush Plans Settled

In its meeting this past week the committee began to work on an actual plan for deferring pledging. Several plans were put forth, all with various merits. None has yet been accepted by the committee. The following is one of the more popular plans.

The informal "rush session" would theoretically get underway during freshmen orientation. This first week would be primarily to get acquainted. It would consist of two or three days before classes start and brief house visits on Friday and Saturday. The purpose of this week according to Alan Davis president of SAE is "to let the fraternity men get to know names and faces, and likewise for the freshmen. This would hopefully be a week of getting to know people, rather than hard line rush."

After get-acquainted week there would be a short semester on fraternity-freshman contacts. Then would follow the period of informal rush, the length of which has not yet been determined by the committee. The possibilities for a pledging date are after football season, after Thanksgiving, and at the end of the semester.

During the period of informal rush the fraternity houses would be open for a specified period each week. However, there would be no obligation on anyone's part to be anywhere at any particular time. Just before the pledging date return house visits would be in order, so the final decision could be made.

Lessons and Carols Celebrate Nativity

The annual Festival of Lessons and Carols, one of Sewanee's most time-honored traditions and one of the members of the community, will be held this year for the first time this endearingly popular candlelight service is scheduled for two observances, at five and eight in the evening, in order to accommodate the large crowds who always come to take part in this religious experience.

Presenting authors for the occasion will be the choir of the University, Ohey Parish, S.M.A., St. Mary's Glee Club, and the Sewanee Chorale. In addition, the University chancelian and the University organist will play special selections. The choir and congregation will join in singing the beloved, familiar carols and canticles that have come to be an integral part of the Advent season.

Readers of the Lessons will be leaders in the Christian community that is Sewanee: representatives of the Student Vestry, the University Choir, the Choir of Gownsmen, Ohey Parish, St. Luke's, and the University chaplain will present the Christmas story in Scripture.

The Chaplains and the Music Department hope that, with having an early and a late service this year, all who wish to come, both children and adults, will be able to get into the true Christmas spirit by taking part in the Festival.

ATO, PDI s Open House

ATO fraternity will hold an open house this Sunday, December 10, immediately after the Festival of Lights. Everyone is invited for a Christmas celebration and refreshments.

This Christmas Tea is set up by the ATO pledges; they have held this annually for half a century.

The pledge class of Tennessee Beta of Phi Delta Theta cordially invites all teachers, students, and alumni to their annual Christmas Tea, held in honor of Mrs. Elizabeth G. Craig. The Tea will be held from 4-6 p.m. on Sunday, December 10, 1967.

Nominations for the editorship of the Sewanee Postcard are to be turned in to the Registrar's Office no later than noon, December 12. A nominee must be a Junior Gownsmen and have been on the PFWEA staff for at least two semesters.

ASIS Jobs Are Offered

Thousands of American students, male and female have participated over the past 10 years in the American Student Information Service program. ASIS has made this possible to students through their paying jobs in Europe program and low cost tours offered. Each year students pour into Luxembourg City for a short orientation and information seminar on European customs and the European way of life, just before leaving for their jobs that ASIS has located and arranged for all over Europe, from snow-covered Scandinavia to the sunny Iberian peninsula.

For their 10th anniversary, ASIS, pioneers in jobs abroad, present even a larger and more varying range of available jobs than ever before. Some 15,000 jobs are on file, available any time during the year, waiting to be filled by American students. Most jobs do not require previous experience or foreign language ability. Rhys, Howell Star in "Browning Version"

The Sewanee Community Theater will present Terrence Ruggins' "The Browning Version", Friday and Saturday, December 8 and 9, at 8:30 in Gossard Hall.

"The Browning Version", directed by Anne Turlington, will star Brinley Rhys, John Howell, Caroline Puuh, Mary McDonough, Bill McElroy, Arjun Sajnani, and Ruddy Crews. The play, a one-act drama, concerns a triangle involving an aging classics professor, his young wife, and a colleague. Written in 1948, the play has been successfully presented at Sewanee several years ago. The setting of the play is in England, with the lead roles being played by Brinley Rhys, John Howell and Mary McDonough.

The price of admission is fifty cents per student. The Sewanee Community Theater, which presented "Arsenic and Old Lace" in 1966, is a non-profit theater group.

The sets were designed and built by Col. Robert P. Moore and a class of S.M.A. cadets.

Examination Dates Set

Final exams will see no changes this semester from past years. All occur from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. the day scheduled. Students who have more than one class scheduled in the afternoon must arrange for their examination by conference with the Dean of the College. Examinations in Seminars and Tutorials are to be arranged by the Professor and the time reported to the Dean of the College.

The Final Examination Schedule for the 1967-68 year is as follows: (Continued on page four)

Dr. James M. Grimes, former chairman of the department of history, died the Saturday after Thanksgiving.

Sewanee Mourns For Dr. Grimes

The Thanksgiving break brought to the University and community of Sewanee the loss of Dr. James Miller Grimes, chairman of the department of history, who died at noon Saturday, November 25, in Tallahassee, following an auto accident there an hour before.

Dr. Grimes, 58, was born on March 1, 1908 in Mt. Vernon, New York. Enrolled originally in Amherst College, he transferred to the University of North Carolina from which he received the A.B. degree in history in 1932 and the A.M. a year later. After two years of graduate study at the Johns Hopkins University, he returned to U. N. C. and in 1940 received his Ph.D. for work in Roman third century and Medieval cultural history. He was assistant at the University of Akron and later at Kenyon College until the Second World War, during which he served four years in the United States Navy as a lieutenant commander.

In 1946 he came to Sewanee as an assistant professor of history. By 1951 he held a full professorship, and was made department chairman in 1953. In addition to the chairmanship of the history department, he had served the college as dean of men and director of admissions, and had long been one of the most respected and best loved among the senior professors of the University. He held membership in the American Association of University Professors, the American Historical Association, the Southern Historical Society, and the American Philological Association. Dr. Grimes is survived by his wife of over twenty years, the former Dorothy West.

The funeral was held at 2:30, Monday afternoon, November 25, in All (Continued on page four)

Language Clubs Plans Festivities

The various language clubs are planning Yuletide festivities as follows: Le Cercle Français plans a party at the Buech's residence. The CIE has been tentatively set for Monday evening, December 11. The exact time is still not known. There will be Christmas carolling, wine, and refreshments. The party is for club members, but non-members are cordially invited.

The Classics Club will hold its Christmas meeting Monday evening, December 11, at the CIE. He has been tentatively set for Monday evening, December 11. The exact time is still not known. There will be Christmas carolling, wine, and refreshments. The party is for club members, but non-members are cordially invited.

Der Deutsche Verein is postponing its feuerbeiwie until after the Christmas holidays. It will be held Saturday, January 13, in the past at Mr. Lockard's house. Members will be given full particulars well in advance.

Blood donations were somewhat lower this year. The number of potential donors rejected due to colds and viruses was supplemented by an excess level over last year thus allowing the Sewanee community to once again reach its quota.

ATO's Comeback Wins Intramural Football Cup

In the final week of Intramural Football a new champion has arisen. At the first of the season certain teams appeared to be possible winners; but their ratings gyrated often in the course of the year. Now, after it all, a team picked fourth is the new Intramural Champ. Here is how it happened in the playoffs of the top three teams.

Early in the ATO—Phi game, the powerful Phi offense ripped off two touchdowns, but failed in both extra point conversions. The first half appeared to be a PDT route and this kept up into the third quarter with the Phi continually penetrating deep into ATO territory. The ATO defense held them off, however, even though the defense was not the usual powerhouse; the Phi did not take advantage of their mistakes and after a costly clipping penalty called back a Phi TD, the half ended 12-0.

With the beginning of the second half, the Taus generated a comeback offense reaching its climax in the fourth quarter with a Moon-Giffin pass TD, and a block-back pass to freshman star powerhouse Logan Jackson for two touchdowns. The ATOs failed to make the extra point after the last touchdown but still went ahead 13-12. In the last minute when the ATOs led to the Phi, the PDT drove to the Tau 10-yard line with brilliant plays by Peters and Ezell. The game ended with an interception by Jack Bryan to clinch the ATO victory with a final 13-12.

For the Championship: ATO—KA. The ATOs quickly got the ball and jammed it down the KA throat to score in the first two minutes of play. The second quarter was a battle of the defenses with both teams making many errors. The KAs could not get much going with a sputtering offense. The ATOs had penalties which were costly, but Chip "Pur" Moon had plenty of time to pass. Just before the half, led by probable all star Son Trask, the KAs scored on an intercepted pass by Trask and the score was 7-6 since the PAT failed.

The second half started with the KAs doing exceptionally well with Trask again catching a pass in the end zone for a TD. Missing the extra point again, the KAs went ahead 12-7. With the fourth quarter, very much reminiscent of the ATO victory over the Phi, the Taus marched down the field to score on a 30-yard blocking-back pass to Jeff Baley and the ATOs clinched the game and the championship.

All star nominations next week.

Unknown Donors Aid Sewanee Lab

The available funds for the J. Albert Woods Science Laboratories were recently boosted by a $100,000 anonymous stock transfer from a new donor. Dr. McCurdy, in revealing this news, stipulated that the $250,000 requirement for the new building has now been reduced to $60,000.

In addition to the $100,000 gift, $300,000 in special contributions is anticipated for the purchase of equipment of particular interest to the Science Department. This includes closed-circuit instructional television, compressed air and de-ionization water equipment.

For the third consecutive year the ATOs captured the intramural football trophy in this margin of one point in the play-off game.

John Colmore, third from the left on the top row, led Sewanee in scoring in their loss to Vanderbilt last Saturday.

Sewanee Women's College First Proposed In 1909

Below is an article taken from the 1909 edition of the Cap and Gown dealing with the then radically "new" concept of a woman's college at Sewanee. Currently in 1967, some 58 years later, at a time when one hears occasional mention of this "aged" idea, it might prove amusing, and even informative to explore the ideas that were presented on this subject at the turn of the century. In the next few paragraphs this article is reproduced in its original style. Reading it might produce for the student or administrator of today valuable insights into the time-honored ideas of the past, considering that such ideas are generally highly revered on this Mountain.

In June, 1909, the late Vice-Chancellor, Dr. Wiggins, made some informal overtures to Miss Laura Drake Gill in regard to the possible development of a College for Women at Sewanee, to be affiliated with the University in much the same way in which Barnard and Radcliff are affiliated with Columbia and Harvard Universities. That is, the proposed College would have a separate Board of Directors, separate funds, separate administration, and a separate faculty. There would, however, be exchange of instruction between the members of the two faculties, and a full equivalence of standards for the degrees.

The death of Dr. Wiggins apparently ended all consideration of the project. However, the matter was again broached under the new Vice-Chancellor two years later, and the Trustees of the University of the South, by a resolution taken on June 12, 1911, invited Miss Gill to undertake the execution of such a general plan as is outlined above.

A rather complete study has been made of the conditions of success for such an enterprise. A charter has been taken out; a Board of Directors has been chosen and organized. This Board has already approved general plans for possible buildings, upon recommendation of their Committee on Plans; they have also approved some fundamental educational policies as outlined by their Committee on Instruction. This official action has put into the hands of the president and authorities of this Board a campaign for funds and for future development of detailed plans for the College.

It will take a long time to carry out

Aquamen Wiped Out

The swimming team opened the 1967-68 season last Saturday suffering on six 29 shellacking at the hands of Vanderbilt. The Tiger tandem, hurt most by their lack of depth and experience, could muster only one first place, the freestyle relay.

Captain Doug Baker and junior John Colmore were high point men for Sewanee with 8½ points apiece. Baker who specializes in the distance captured a second both at the 500 and 1000-yard freestyle events. Colmore took second in the 50 and 100 yard events. Both men were on Sewanee's winning freestyle relay team.

The Wandy effort was spurred by a norm of spectacular freshmen. Norm Fraumenheim was high man with 12½ points followed by Dirk Van Hoesen with 10. Van Hoesen, the second ranked high school breaststroker in the country last year more than lived up to his credentials by shattering the SEC 200 breaststroke mark. His new record is 2:18.8 for the 200 yard event.

Cook Ted Bittendo said "We were simply outclassed. The number of freshmen on Wandy's team (IT) is larger than our whole squad. Our lack of depth was only too painfully obvious."

The Tigers will face a tough Eastern Kentucky team next Friday at home. The meet will be at 4:30 in the Jahan Gymnasium pool. On Wednesday, December 13, Sewanee hosts Southern Florida University at 4:00 p.m. It is hoped that the student body will turn out in full force to support the aquamen.

- The results:
- 400-yard medley relay—V (Young, Janney, Fraumenheim, Grove)—3:58.6
 - 1000 freestyle—Ricke (V), Kleinhans (V), Tyree (S)—11:32
 - 200 freestyle—Patrick (V), Baker (S), Snow (V)—1:58
 - 50 freestyle—VanHoesen (V), Colmore (S), Dale (V)—2:25
 - 200 individual medley—Fraumenheim (V), McCleskey (V), Love (S)—2:16.2
 - 1 meter diving—Sawyers (V), Putnam (V), McCough (S)
 - 3 meter diving—Putnam (V), Sawyers (V), McCough (S)
 - 200 butterfly—Fraumenheim (V), Humphries (V), Dougas (S)—2:71
 - 100 freestyle—Grove (V), Colmore (S), Snow (V)—2:24
 - 200 backstroke—Young (V), Christy (V), Dent (S)—2:16.7
 - 500 freestyle—Ricke (V), Baker (S), Landrum (S)—5:54.8
 - 200 breaststroke—VanHoesen (V), Hoch (S), Hackett (V)—2:18.8
 - 400 freestyle relay—S (Colmore, Davis, Dent, Baker)—3:49

Again this year the faculty, with its years of experience, has produced the most coordinated volleyball team in the intramural league. Fortunately, however, a second place will yield first place points. As it looks now, the PGDs are the team to beat.

Mr. Fuhmann Speaks Out Against the Vietnam War

Joseph T. Fuhmann, the new addition to the University's history department has some revealing comments on the anti-war movement and its objectives.

Mr. Fuhmann states that many young "Americans feel trapped" by a "hated American system". They hate "everything around", the selfish capitalist economy, the carelessness of the uniformed, and especially the inefficient handling of the pressing problems of racism and poverty.

The government declared as the representative organ of the people is locked-up upon its reactionary and irrational view of current politics.

Why reactionary? The American government supports an unpopular dictatorship in South Vietnam. Former President Eisenhower's book "Mandate for Change" states that an election in South Vietnam was not held in 1956 as promised in the Geneva Accords because an overwhelming number of his advisers believed that a popular election would give Ho Chi Minh 80 percent of the vote.

Fuhmann points out that 16 out of 11 generals on the present South Vietnamese military staff fought for the French. He adds—Does this in-power group represent the Vietnamese people? The recent election, one excluding the leftist and even several middle-of-the-road candidates, merely returned these same leaders to power.

Believing that the U. S. is only continuing the imperialistic French policy before 1954, in which France tried to reassert its political and economic influence over Viet Nam, the first step is to bring the Viet Nam people back to the Viet Nam man's popular republic of Viet Nam set up after Japanese defeat. Fuhmann advocates immediate withdrawal. The American public is still reacting from the threat of Russian and Chinese armed invasion as remembered in eastern Europe and Korea. We fail to see the nationalistic tendencies overcoming Communism.

"The Wretched of the Earth" Necessitates "Black Power"

By Frantz Fanon with Preface by Jean-Paul Sartre. Reviewed by George Hainley.

From the time of the waning of the Middle Ages, from the onset of the great European commercial Renaissance, the expansionary dynamic of Western commercial culture has been the root, the denominating constant, of modern history.

The greatness of Western liberalism, its material abundance, the flourishing of its arts and sciences, its painful construction of constitutional democracy—these interconnected achievements—these interconnected achievements have been financed by the sustained theft called imperialism and colonialism.

The Wretched of the Earth is a brilliant analysis of the colonial situation of the author's native continent, Africa. The author, Frantz Fanon, is an Algerian Negro psychiatrist, who writes with an incisive literary hand, and in the language of Marxism-Leninism; he shows the way toward union and a "Third World" ideal for Africans and exploited people everywhere by interpreting the process of colonialization as a step by step dialectic.

The impact of this book does not lie in a probing of human ideals, but rather in its clinical approach to the function of violence in the creation and evolution of colonialization and decolonization. Fanon accepts violence as the agent of exploitation (as a destructive and coercive force), and more significantly, he accepts violence as the means by which the colonial native must regain his freedom from oppression and thereby his normality. Fanon is enough convinced of the notion of violence by colonizers which begets violence as a reaction by natives, that he includes in an appendix a case-study of the effects of oppression in creating mental disorders among the natives.

Fanon's attack on the mother countries of colonialism is complete: he spurns the herings of the Western search for the Supremacy of Man, which has at the same time permitted the enslavement of millions. He calls for the formation of a "Third World" which will be totally unlike a sickened Western society; it is no good creating a reflection of an old, spiritually bankrupt world, encumbered with Christian guilt.

Some get out of society—the Hippies, for instance, by setting up their own zones with their own codes, their own conditions can be fashioned. A fleeing of creation and experimentation temporarily satisfies them. Others stay in and identify themselves with revolutionary movements, Communism, Black Power, and the New Left are the most organized. They advocate radical change.

The Washington march brought the alienated members of our society to the fore. According to Fuhmann 80 percent of this group were under 25. He estimated the crowd to be over 100,000 although march organizers claim up to 210,000 and the Chattanooga Times 37,000.

Fuhmann believes the Sewanee delegation gained a lot from the march by listening to leaders representing the diverse elements coming together in order to oppose the Viet Nam war. The crowds were by no means favorable to all the radical movements. Still, all the marchers did support an organized confrontation with the Pentagon in order to express their opposition to the State Department's handling of the Viet Nam situation.

He hopes the march's purpose will be achieved by a direct transmission from the national level to each local delegation. Fuhmann's advice to such groups: only national, well thought-out plans can succeed; mass riots and undirected release of tension cannot.

Mr. Fuhmann's goal—A Third Political Movement, a conscious, organized, energetic attempt to prevent the American system from its necessary development away from the present reactionary policy.

Annual Banquet

not as inconspicuous in the chaotic times we live in as it would seem, rather it is the only sure way to survive as an individual. "The significant thing is to know who you are" was the central theme of his speech. Thus bringing in his experience as an interviewer to S.N.C.C. leaders, Ku Klux Klan leaders, spokesmen of the "flower children" and all other conditions and sorts generally accepted as the spokesmen of our times, he maintains that only with a sure grasp of knowing who you are and where you are going can one retain an objective point of view and a balanced way of life. If one is to truly live, we are to assume, one must get into the thick of the fray, if one is to exist as a person, one must know who he is. It is up to us to get both of these, but Sewanee makes it easier to get the latter.

From one who has really been in the thick of the fray, we can assume that he is pulling no punches when he claims that the best preparation for the outside world is a Sewanee education. And from one who has apparently "made it" in the "outside world", it makes one a little prouder that he, too, will someday be able to claim this place as his old alma mater. We are deeply indebted to Mr. Cummings for returning to the Mountain and giving us his good advice.
